Open Rear Door Lets 4 Survive

PORT HARDY, B.C. (CP)—A Pacific Western Airlines plane, returning to land shortly after taking off Sunday from the busy-but-remote Port Hardy airport, 240 miles north of Victoria, bounced high off the runway and then plunged nose first into the ground.

'NOSE DIVED'

Survivor Tells Story Of Air Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—A survivor of the Pacific Western Airlines plane crash which took 14 lives said Sunday night the DC3 went into a nose-dive shortly before it crashed, after having trouble getting off the ground.

Peter Amushko, 27, of Edmonton, was reached by telephone at the home of a doctor where he was treated for minor injuries suffered when the plane crashed at Port Hardy, B.C.

Amushko said the plane "couldn't seem to get any height" after its takeoff. The pilot banked to the left and headed back, then "shot right up in the air, maybe 1,000 feet."

It banked left again "and went into what I would call a nose-dive."

"I could see the ground coming over my shoulder. We hit and everyone was flung over to the left. My head was kind of squashed against something. There was debris all over. I shook my head. The flames started coming. I undid my safety belt and went for the back door."

"I remember thinking: 'If that back door is jammed shut, it will be bad' but it wasn't. It was partly opened by the impact of hitting ground, I suppose."

"When we got out I heard the stewardess saying: 'There's someone still alive in there.'"

"The flames were coming fast then. It was pretty hot. I could see someone trying to get down to the door and I tried to get to him, but it was no use. The flames got whoever it was."

The pilot, co-pilot and 12 passengers died as the twin-engine DC3 burned fiercely. The youthful stewardess and three other passengers, all from the rear of the plane, made their way almost unhurt through a rear door as flames and burning gasoline sprayed the field and consumed all of the aircraft but its tail.

"It came straight down," said Bill Krause, an airport worker who saw the crash. "The controls must have frozen."

BLAME GROUND CREW

Pacific Western, the third largest air service in Canada, with operations from the United States border to the Arctic Circle, later issued a statement implying that negligence may have been the cause of the crash.

Early reports, the company said, indicate the "cause of the accident was the failure of some personnel to remove one of the ground control blocks which are always placed on the tail assembly of the aircraft. The wooden blocks hold the tail elevators in position and would stop the elevators from working properly if left in position after the plane took off."

Captain was Gerald W. Allen, 37, of Richmond, B.C. His co-pilot was Laurie Roland, 23, of Vancouver, a three-time winner of the British Columbia junior open golf championship and Canadian titlist in 1951. Both were killed.

Third crew member was Patricia Wilson, 23, of Vancouver, a native of Regina who joined PWA 15 months ago. She survived.

The plane was bound for Vancouver, 190 miles southeast of this northern Vancouver Island community.

BOUNCED OFF RUNWAY

"It appeared to be a normal take-off," said airport worker Krause, who watched it from outside his home. "He got into the air and then radioed for permission to land again. . . ."

"He said he was having trouble with his elevators. He came down, bounced off the runway and veered into the air again to between 300 or 400 feet."

"The plane suddenly banked to the left and then nosed over. It came straight down."

Another airport worker, Bill Porter, said Capt. Allen was asked by the control tower whether he wanted the crash wagon to stand by. . . .

"He said no, that he was in control," said Porter. "He was, too, at that time."

Others who escaped were John Kimdrat of Moose Jaw, Sask., Salvatore Dardeno, 28, of Vancouver, and Peter Amushko of Edmonton.

The doctor who treated them for the injuries and burns, Dr. W. S. Wilson of Port Hardy, said the four "are all remarkably well and very fortunate."

Besides their position at the rear of the plane, Dr. Wilson said, a contributing factor in their survival was that the rear door was sprung open by the crash impact.

No Early Election Says PM in U.K.

SLY DIFENBAKER DIGS AT POLITICAL PUNDITS

LONDON (CP)—The upset winner of Canada's June 10 election couldn't resist having his bit of fun.

Mischief gleamed in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's eyes today as British reporters at London airport asked him how he accounted for his victory.

"You'd better ask the Canadian correspondents," he replied. "Their prophecies were about as good as any answer I could make."

LONDON (CP)—John Diefenbaker arrived today to attend the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, and the new Canadian leader lost no time in making clear he is "a strong Commonwealth man," and that he has "no intention of calling an early election in Canada."

"The Commonwealth has a great work to do and its mandate is far from being exhausted," he told correspondents at the airport. He also said he will press for the extension of trade within the Commonwealth, and hoped a Commonwealth trade conference—possibly in Ottawa—might be called soon.

"Having just recovered from one election, we don't intend another 'at this early date,'" he said.

Diefenbaker flew to London in an RCAF plane, accompanied by his defence minister, Maj. Gen. George Pearkes, VC. Pearkes will meet with British defence chiefs this week and also hold a number of talks with senior officers at the Canadian joint staff in London.

The prime minister's dark-haired wife, wearing a blue dress, a long stole and a blue eartwheel hat, was also with him.

BIG WELCOME

A large delegation of British, Canadian and Commonwealth dignitaries was on hand. The Earl of Home, Commonwealth relations secretary, was there on behalf of Prime Minister Macmillan.

He discounted reports that his government is opposed to the degree of United States investment in Canada, saying "our policy welcomes investment from whatever source it comes, provided it is for the benefit of Canada."

However, the prime minister said his government plans to take steps to amend legislation creating a situation "where a Canadian desiring to invest risk capital in Canada is in a detrimental position compared to a United States investor." He did not elaborate.

Diefenbaker's arrival attracted a near-record turnout of London's press corps. Immediately after leaving the airport he held informal talks with S. D. Pierce, acting Canadian high commissioner to the U.K., and other Canada House officials. He had an afternoon appointment with Macmillan.

Tuesday he hopes to pay a morning call on Prime Minister Menzies of Australia, followed by meetings with Prime Ministers Nkrumah of Ghana and Suhrawardy of Pakistan. He plans to see Prime Minister Nehru of India before the opening conference session Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Reuters reported Britain's new defence policy, based on the nuclear deterrent and possession of the hydrogen bomb, will be examined by Commonwealth prime ministers during the conference.

MOTHER BURNED TOT WITH CIGARET BUTT

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Martha Gray, 24, mother of four children, was charged Saturday with cruelty after, police said, she beat her three-month-old son and burned him with cigarettes to stop his crying.

The baby, Carl, was still in critical condition at a hospital, with 17 fractures, and numerous body burns.

Police quoted Mrs. Gray as saying she beat the baby with her doubled fist and burned him with cigarettes to quiet him.

"I love my baby but I just can't stand it when he cries." She said when she got up at night to give Carl his bottle, she would light a cigarette and burn him.

Korea 'War Alert' As Red Jets Fly

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean government tonight declared a "war alert" after flights of 19 Communist jet planes were reported to have flown south of the military armistice line.

In Korea "war alert" is one degree from martial law.

The Defence Ministry reported that an estimated 2,000 North Koreans staged demonstrations near the Panmunjom neutral zone frontier with huge banners saying "withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea" and "peaceful reunification of Korea."

The ministry said 19 MIG jet fighters flew south of the demilitarized line near Kumha, central Korea, this morning in violation of the armistice agreement.

No hostile action was taken by the planes.

The MIGs came in three waves, the statement said.

The United Nations command last week accused the Communists in North Korea of "gross and repeated" violations of the Korean armistice, and decided to replace outmoded weapons in South Korea because the North Koreans and Chinese had already done so.

in defiance of the armistice agreement of 1953.

On Saturday all South Korean troops on leave were recalled under an emergency alert. A Korean defence ministry spokesman said "the chances of a North Korean attack on South Korea are always high," and that precautionary measures were needed.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada "sympathized with the need to rectify the arms situation" in South Korea, an external affairs department spokesman said today.

This was the Ottawa reaction when Canada was consulted by the United Nations command in South Korea before the UN notified the Chinese and North Korean Communists last week that modern weapons will be sent to South Korea to counter an arms buildup in North Korea.

Human Error Under Probe

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A press report that the crash of the Pacific Western Airlines DC3 on Sunday was due to tail blocks being inadvertently left in place was being checked today by the department of transport's air division to ascertain if it is accurate.

In September, 1946, at Estevan, Sask., a RCAF transport crashed killing 21. The crash at that time, investigations showed, was due to the tail blocks being left in place, preventing the aircraft from gaining altitude.

Following that Estevan air force crash—which was investigated by the RCAF—the transport department issued regulations which required that the tail blocks had to have streamers and huge weights on them so that ground personnel could never overlook them before an aircraft took off.

The plane was en route from Kamato to Vancouver, and most of the passengers were workers employed at the huge Kitimat development of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

It was making a routine diversion before landing in Vancouver, and crashed into the mountain at the 1,500-foot level. The accident occurred at about 9 p.m. and the plane burst into flames immediately.

The worst was Oct. 17, 1951, when a Canso amphibian operated by Queen Charlotte Airways crashed into Mount Benson behind Nanaimo, killing 20 passengers and the crew of three. None escaped.

Bomb Blast Rips Doors 14 Miles Away

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Scientists today fired a nuclear test weapon that was blinding in daylight and so strong it wrenched doors from their hinges 14 miles away at the control point.

The device, most powerful of the summer test series and the first to be touched off in daylight, was suspended 700 feet above the desert floor from a big plastic balloon.

In Las Vegas, about 75 miles away, one observer said the atomic cloud had a "double mushroom effect."

The atomic energy commission said "there was little radioactivity in the stem, which will in any case settle back on the site."

The testers reported the blast was felt "very sharply" at the control point. Interior doors at the entrance ways of the control point building were torn from their hinges and interior walls were cracked at one entrance.

Exact size of the blast was not disclosed, but the atomic energy commission had said earlier that it would be above 20 kilotons, or more powerful than the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Among the active participants in today's shot were 835 pigs. Some were covered with material used in military clothing, to be examined to determine how it had been affected by radiation.

Full Revision Asked On Evacuation Plan

A complete revision of Greater Victoria evacuation plans will be recommended to the next meeting of Greater Victoria Civil Defence Board.

Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, recently returned from a CD course at Annapolis, Ontario, said today the existing plan is "obsolete."

The plan was outlined in detail in a 12-page handbook last year. A total of 35,000 copies were distributed to householders in this area. Cost was $2,235.

"The whole of the Saanich peninsula should be evacuated in event of impending attack," Ald. Edgelow stated.

The plan issued last year calls for evacuation of a large part of the district to the Sidney area.

"Our only hope would be for everyone to go up-Island," said Ald. Edgelow.

UP-ISLAND
He said the best escape method now would be via the Island Highway with all traffic in three lanes going north. Southbound traffic would be restricted.

This would no doubt create traffic slow-ups and all might not expect to escape, he stated, but "at least a few thousand would be saved."

TV Swap Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally proposed to Russia today a "regular exchange of uncensored radio and television broadcasts."

Is Margaret 'Cradle-Snatching'? Express Asks as Escort Younger

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Express has raised the question whether Princess Margaret is cradle-snatching because her new escort is nearly four years her junior.

It is the second piece of veiled criticism in as many days by one of Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers about Princess Margaret's going with Lord Patrick Beresford. A Sunday Express columnist hinted that the princess had stolen the handsome guardsman from Joanna Smith-Bingham, a 21-year-old.

The Queen's sister and the young nobleman have been constant companions in recent weeks. She will be 27 in August; he is 23.

Express writer Anne Edwards says the age discrepancy is causing a good deal of talk. Miss Edwards deplores this, asking: "Why should everyone be so horrified at the idea that a 27-year-old girl might marry a 23-year-old boy?"

"Yet the fact is that whenever a girl goes around with a man much younger than herself, people assume she is making the best of what is available, settling for something rather than nothing, looking back because her field has narrowed."

The princess watched Lord Patrick play polo at Windsor Great Park Sunday. Then they drove off together in his car to Windsor Castle, where he was a weekend guest.

PM to Pledge Commonwealth Loyalty, Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, has gone to London to assure his Commonwealth partners of the government's desire to stand fast with them and, perhaps, to drum up trade.

The 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer who became prime minister last Friday left Ottawa on the RCAF's luxury C-54 transport aircraft for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Wednesday.

Before taking off Sunday with his official delegation, including Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, new defence minister, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Commonwealth has opportunities equal to any in the past to assure and maintain freedom.

This statement followed his radio and television address to the nation Saturday night—his first as prime minister—when he said he would express to the conference Canada's belief in the future of the Commonwealth and readiness to lend a helping hand to under-developed Commonwealth members.

Friendship and Harmony With World

It was Canada's desire to stand united with the Commonwealth in good and bad times and in friendship and harmony with all the world, especially the United States.

At Uplands airport Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated an election campaign promise to initiate a Commonwealth trade and economic conference to find ways of achieving a maximum of intra-Commonwealth trade.

Canada, faced with stocks of 725,000,000 bushels of wheat, has lost some of its importance as a supplier to Britain and Mr. Diefenbaker may seek to regain it.

In his broadcast address, Mr. Diefenbaker pledged himself to the service of Canadians in the belief "that the preservation of human dignity and the extension of human betterment are the foundation and keystone of good government."

He referred to Canada's role as a link between Britain and the U.S. and indicated his Progressive Conservative government is prepared to continue in that role.

"I believe that the unity of these nations must be preserved in the years ahead in a spirit of infinite forbearance and compassion," he said.

His party attending the London conference, besides Mrs. Diefenbaker and Mrs. Pearkes, includes R. B. Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council, and Jules Leger, undersecretary of state for external affairs, and A. F. W. Plumptre, assistant deputy finance minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker has retained for himself, at least for the time being, the post of external affairs minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker retained the external post along with the prime ministry.

Douglas Harkness, new northern affairs minister, will be acting minister of agriculture until an appointment is made by Mr. Diefenbaker shortly after his July 6 return from London.

Revenue Minister Nowlan will be acting defence minister while the new prime minister is in London. Mr. Diefenbaker retained the external post along with the prime ministry.

Mr. Diefenbaker, meeting reporters after the second Conservative cabinet meeting since the new administration took office Friday, also said:

1. He won't be announcing the names of parliamentary assistants to cabinet ministers until some time after his return from London.

2. He has nothing to say for the moment about the question of appointing a president of the privy council, a nominal portfolio customarily held by the prime minister.

3. He would think the appointment of an acting prime minister to function in his absence from Ottawa would be an "ad hoc" proposition, indicating that Mr. Green is not a permanent choice for this job.

Ack-Ack Units In Training At Albert Head

Anti-aircraft firing from Albert Head started over the weekend and will continue until July 7 by mainland ack-ack militia units in summer camp here.

Members of 65 Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment (Irish Fusiliers), Vancouver, arrived here last week and will train until Saturday when they will be replaced by medium ack-ack units.

Vancouver's 43 Medium Anti-Aircraft Battery and the 24 MAA Battery, Trail, will camp at Albert Head from June 29 to July 7.

Mariners are warned of the seaward danger area between Albert Head, Race Rocks, and Trial Island, which extends to an altitude of 25,000 feet.

Firing will take place both at night and in daylight.

Meanwhile, on Friday, about 200 men of Victoria militia units will leave for summer training at Camp Wainwright.

Men of 5 Medium Battery, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), 5 Area Signals Squadron, "B" Platoon 156 Transport Company, 25 Medical Company, 40 Technical Squadron and headquarters personnel of 25 Militia Group will take part.

They fly to Vancouver where all but the latter group, led by commanding officer, Brig. John Adam, will entrain for Wainwright. The Group will fly all the way.

Revenue Minister Nowlan will be acting defence minister while the new prime minister is in London. Mr. Diefenbaker retained the external post along with the prime ministry.

3. He would think the appointment of an acting prime minister to function in his absence from Ottawa would be an "ad hoc" proposition, indicating that Mr. Green is not a permanent choice for this job.

Mr. Diefenbaker, meeting reporters after the second Conservative cabinet meeting since the new administration took office Friday, also said:

1. He won't be announcing the names of parliamentary assistants to cabinet ministers until some time after his return from London.

PEARKES ORDERS ARMY PENSION SUSPENDED—IT WAS AUTOMATIC

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—One of the first steps taken by Maj. Gen. Pearkes as minister of national defence, was to issue instructions that his long-term army service pension be suspended effective from the date he was sworn in as minister, on June 21.

While the minister issued this instruction as one of his first acts in office, it was really not necessary.

Under the provisions of the pension its suspension would have been automatic as soon as Gen. Pearkes took cabinet office.

RCAF Probing Sabotage Hint In Jet Crashes

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is investigating the possibility of sabotage in a recent series of jet plane crashes at its base at Zweibrücken, West Germany, it was learned today.

WOMEN START PLAYGROUND AT BELMONT

Motivated by the traffic death of a two-year-old neighborhood child, a group of Virago Crescent housewives plan to grub out Belmont Park's first playground.

The child, Dorothy McDormand, was killed by a bus as she ran on Belmont Road June 15. She was one of about 1,000 navy children in the housing area with no playground, but the streets or unfenced yards to play.

The wives—five to date—are led by Mrs. T. Day. Mrs. Day said they have taken up an idea originated by Mrs. Ann Neilson.

AWAY FROM TRAFFIC

They want to make a playground of a scrub and grass-covered area at the foot of Virago, a street some distance from traffic-heavy Belmont Road.

Members of a teen-age group in the park will offer assistance in scything and chopping at the undergrowth to clear a play area.

"It's for our own kiddies," Mrs. Day said. "... There was such a to-do about playing in the street after the kiddie was killed a week ago.

FIVE SO FAR

"There are only five of us so far. We'll go around and ask for toys and if it gets going fine and the navy sees what we are doing, maybe they'll give us swings and teeter-totters."

She said the kiddies will play with cardboard boxes, pieces of wood, broken toys or anything the neighborhood offers.

At present there is one set of swings in the park.

OLD LABEL

"Thespians" as a term for actors comes from the Greek tragedian Thespis, who lived in the 6th century B.C.

HUNGARY'S KADAR FACING CONFLICT?

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary's Communists are meeting Thursday in their first national conference since the Russians crushed the fall revolution. It may mean trouble for Premier Janos Kadar.

There has been some conflict in recent weeks between partisans of Kadar, who rode into power behind Soviet tanks Nov. 4, and those who say they want a policy hewing even closer to the Moscow line.

CCF Caucus Wednesday

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF will hold a caucus of its Commons members in Winnipeg Wednesday to prepare for the next session of Parliament "whenever it comes," CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said today.

Mr. Coldwell, whose party along with Social Credit holds the balance of Commons power, said the caucus will "talk over the results of the election" and get organized for its role in the new Parliament.

Discussions would include the attitude of the CCF toward certain proposals made by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the campaign for the June 10 election.

Mr. Coldwell did not specify these, but presumably he had in mind such Progressive Conservative proposals as raising the basic income tax exemption to $1,500 from the current $1,000 and providing cash advances for Prairie farmers on their farm - stored grain. The CCF advocates both of these.

Mr. Coldwell said the caucus would consider what should be done about the "farm problem," a national health insurance scheme and old-age pensions. The CCF advocates raising old age pensions to $75 a month from the current $40, which is due to go up to $46 July 1.

Nurse Escapes Knife-Wielding Mental Escapees

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Two patients who escaped from the Nova Scotia mental hospital here, holding a nurse at knife-point, were captured Sunday by RCMP about two miles from the hospital.

The nurse, 19-year-old Jessie Simpson, of Glace Bay, broke away from the patients about half an hour before they were captured. She was found slumped on a lawn at nearby Gaston Road, hysterical and exhausted.

The patients were found within a half hour in dense woods in the area, RCMP said.

The patients took the pretty nurse from a hospital tuberculosis ward shortly after noon Sunday and made her lead them from the hospital and across the grounds to nearby woods. One man had taken a carving knife from a ward kitchen.

Clothes torn and arms and face scratched from the thick bushes, she told reporters: "They didn't attack me."

She said her captors hauled her under the bushes each time a police helicopter went over. RCMP said the helicopters spotted the trio twice but lost them before pursuers could reach the area.

Miss Simpson, still sobbing after her five-hour ordeal, said she saw a farm and ran screaming from the patients. She couldn't remember whether they tried to stop her.

Balance of Power

AT FIRST GLANCE THE NEW Parliament of Canada may seem to depend on that balance of power predicted and sought by the Social Credit Party. A second glance will show that the Social Credit objective has not been achieved. It has been forestalled by the prompt and sound action of the Liberal Opposition.

In his first important decision as Opposition leader Mr. St. Laurent announced that the Liberal Party would not attempt to obstruct the program of the Diefenbaker Government. It would reserve the right to criticize individual measures but it would not endanger the government even while disagreeing with some Conservative policies. Though it holds a minority of seats, the Government is able, for the visible future at any rate, to legislate as it sees fit. No parliamentary obstacle stands in the way of the Government as it undertakes to confirm its election promises.

Mr. Bennett, the de facto national leader of Social Credit (which is no longer a national force) said in the election campaign that his party, holding a balance of power, would force the Government to follow Social Credit policies or throw it out. At that time Mr. Bennett expected to see a minority Liberal Government since the Conservative Party, as he said so often, was dead and buried. But even if he was a little too optimistic on that score, Social Credit could perhaps coerce a minority Conservative Government for a short time if the Liberal Opposition would co-operate in this congenial work.

The Liberal Party will not co-operate with Social Credit. It will co-operate with the Government. Therefore, Mr. Diefenbaker need pay no attention whatever to Social Credit. He is not subject to the blackmail so carefully prepared for the St. Laurent Government.

So long as the Diefenbaker Government can count on the co-operation of the Liberals, Social Credit can have no significant power in Parliament. As a national movement Social Credit was doomed in any case at the moment when the Conservative Party began to revive; it was destroyed when the Conservative Party came to office. For today, though splintered, Parliament is in full control of the two national parties. The two-party system has been almost completely restored. The chance to restore it completely will occur not long hence at another election.

It is much too early yet to anticipate the effects of that election on the two national parties. But it is inconceivable that Social Credit will make any significant gains and will be fortunate indeed to hold its small package in two provinces. The great plan conceived in Victoria when Mr. Bennett came to office now lies in ruins. The nation has considered and rejected it.

If he is wise Mr. Bennett will accept the rejection as permanent and get on with the provincial business which he was elected to manage. And if the nation is wise it will make sure in the next election that the two-party system is finally re-established in normal balance, beyond the threat of the splinters.

It's Better to Know

FOR THE LAST THREE YEARS or more, "golden staph" infection has been a source of considerable concern in Victoria and other hospitals. Many patients have contracted infection within the hospitals. "Golden staph" has caused lengthy quarantine, keeping patients bed-ridden long beyond the requirements of their original illness. Coming on top of other physical ailments, the infection has contributed to a number of deaths.

The effect of such incidents was that reports and rumors became widespread. In the face of serious public concern, however, the hospital authorities released little helpful information. Apparently fear that the public would lose confidence in their health institutions was the guiding consideration in the unofficial censorship. The conditions were ripe for exaggerations and "scare stories" and these were soon much in evidence.

Not until last week did local authorities see fit to give a complete background on the golden staph situation. This information appeared in The Times' news columns on Friday and it proves to be worse than the rumors in some respects and much better in others.

There have been 300 cases in the two local hospitals already this year, some of them contracted in the buildings. The organism is firmly established in the hospitals and so far is immune to attack by the wonder drugs. One expert estimates that more deaths occur from the complications of illness caused by golden staph than are caused by traffic accidents. Isolation of infected patients has cut the number of cases originating in hospitals by 75 per cent.

Some of these facts are alarming. But they are offset by explanations now forthcoming that the infection is really a very common and well-known one, and the organism is present in almost every human body, appearing as boils and in other guises only when run-down physical condition invites it.

Such information puts the whole situation in a clearer perspective. It will allay much public fear while at the same time encouraging cleanliness and care on the part of everyone.

The question arises, why did not the authorities clarify the whole question long ago. Here was obviously a case in which a hospital or civic official should have spoken out and presented the facts. Much needless apprehension would have been dissipated, exaggerated stories would have been discounted and a better environment for combating the infection would have been created.

It seems obvious from this incident that there is little to be gained by muffling information, much to be gained by disseminating it. Knowledge, not ignorance, is the best means of allaying public fears, and a free press in Canada stands ready to co-operate with the authorities at all times in spreading knowledge.

Warning Cry From Mr. Paton

SOUTH AFRICAN AUTHOR Alan Paton, who achieved international literary distinction with his book "Cry the Beloved Country," has raised an impressive voice against the latest law to divide whites and others in South Africa.

The law, passed by parliament and now awaiting the Governor General's signature before becoming operative, could ban political and social contact between Africans and whites.

"When free association, whether religiously based or not, becomes an article of faith and a pattern of life, there are bound to be those who cannot obey the law and who would rather be punished than obey. I regard myself as one of these," says Mr. Paton.

"Many racially oppressive acts which the government has passed have revolted or wounded or disgusted or depressed or angered" people like himself, the author adds, noting the most recent seems "the most terrible of all."

Conceivably protests by men of Mr. Paton's standing may delay implementation of the law or cause its elimination. As it stands, however, he considers it an instrument closing the "last door or pulling up" the last bridge into the white fortress behind whose battlements the white people of South Africa are sealing themselves off from the rest of their continent and indeed from the rest of the world.

What hope, he asks, can there be for a relatively orderly solution of African problems if the last bridges between white and non-white are destroyed?

There is a somber warning in two succeeding remarks: "If these bridges are destroyed there can be one way only by which the majority of the people can bring about a change in the political setup of the country and that will be by violence and revolution. And revolution could very well result in replacing white domination and repression and injustice by black domination and repression and injustice."

Mr. Paton does not have to labor the numerical superiority of non-whites over whites in South Africa.

IDEAS IN A FRAME

By B. A. TOBIN

Let's Move Along With It

IT DOESN'T take much imagination to realize that living conditions must have been fairly tough back in the stone age. Living in a cave, fighting off wild beasts that would make our modern animals look like lap-dogs in comparison, getting by from meal to meal on what they could kill with rocks or clubs — folks of those times must have known how to rough it. The infant mortality must have been pretty high, and the most venerable patriarch of the family probably lived to the ripe old age of 25 or 30. There must have been an unending struggle to get enough food, and to keep from becoming food for the sabre-toothed monstrosities that prowled around.

In view of these conditions it would be natural to conclude that the people of that era were pretty rough and tough, with nothing much on their minds but survival. It's quite a surprise, then, to find that at least a few of them took time out to improve their surroundings.

They drew pictures on the walls of their caves that command respect today not only for their historic value but for the artistic talent they show.

Thus we have the famous cave of Altamira, in Spain, with its powerful drawing of a bison. We have caves in France which show pictures of bison and even of ponderous mammoths. Other Spanish caves show hunting scenes, and one in the Pyrenees contributed a horse's head skillfully carved from a piece of reindeer horn.

Even under good conditions, these products of human eye and hand and judgment would be inspiring. Coming from the environment which then prevailed, they give an indication of the spirit that has carried mankind down through the ensuing thousands of years.

Early Impetus

Those early forebears gave us a good send-off. They started something that has been going on ever since.

The process has had good eras and poor ones, times of prolific output and times of scarcity. It has had bad setbacks, centuries in which experiment and change were banned. There have been ages during which political and religious forces condemned anything new in man's effort to express his feelings by depicting something on a wall or a piece of canvas or by chipping a lump of stone.

If those powers had been in control at the beginning there would probably have been no cave drawings to make us wonder, for such nonsense would have been forbidden on the grounds that nobody had ever done it before.

But through all its ups and downs — restricted times, for instance, when all paintings had to depict certain accepted subjects in a certain accepted style — what we call artistic endeavor has somehow survived. There have always been radicals and outlaws who risked their lives and certainly their livelihoods to change the accepted way and branch off into something new.

Divine Discontent

Some revolutionary, for example — he'd probably be branded a communist today — would insist on painting a saint without a circular halo around his head as fashion up to then had dictated.

He might be denounced and scorned, but if he needs now, that is, to keep at it, gradually other painters might be attracted. Within a generation or so HIS way would be the accepted way, and anyone who tried something different would be a radical.

So it has gone, a gain here, a change there. Some of the new ideas proved to be poor and were dropped, but others survived to add their bit to the gradually growing wealth of technical knowledge and artistic talent.

Sometimes an artist was long dead before the worth of his contribution was recognized. There must be a whole department in the hereafter for painters and sculptors who like to get together and enjoy the irony of that situation. Their password must be I told you so.

The art of every era has reflected the spirit of the times, enlivened with a dash of spice donated by those who were a little ahead of their times. When things were slow-moving, as they have been through most of man's history, changes in artistic styles came slowly too.

Nearly always the "old" ways have been considered the best, with, of course, new ways becoming old ways as time slips by.

But in our own modern era everything has speeded up. All aspects of our life — economic, educational, technical, sociological and so on — have been spinning through stages of rapid progress and change. The artistic side of life has been no exception.

So today we find all kinds of experiments going on in art — some good, some poor, some to last, some to die, some original and some merely copied by people more interested in expressing fashion than in expressing themselves.

The arguments rage, the experimenters and their products are denounced, just as folk must have denounced the cave artists who tried to look at a bison in a little different way.

The cave men put their pictures on the wall because that's the only protected place they had. The caves weren't art galleries, they were homes. It's only in the last couple of hundred years or so that we've got collections of art together and put them in public buildings for the people to enjoy.

For Wider Use

Before that the art of the world was kept in private collections belonging to the church, or royalty or wealthy patrons. Getting the treasures of the ages into public galleries was a big step ahead, and some very famous collections have been created. It's a poor community today that does not have at least a small gallery or museum.

One of the important developments of our times is the growth of travelling exhibitions, whereby parts of large collections of art can be sent out to smaller centres for temporary showing. How those cave men would have liked an arrangement like that.

Our own community is no exception. The art gallery here is slowly making headway, getting together a modest collection of pictures. It also gets a few of the travelling collections.

What it needs now, though, is a fire-proof wing so it could receive the more valuable collections that aren't shown in wooden buildings — one problem the cave men didn't have.

It needs more room for youngsters' classes and a score of other activities that are carried on in connection with the gallery.

With a little help at this point it could be put into the Class A category, and fall heir to half a million dollars worth of painting treasures plus a chance at Canada's best travelling shows. It could become one of the most important and popular caves in the community. As a centennial project, this seems to have everything.

As Our Readers See It

'Horsified'

I take this opportunity to express my reaction to a visit in this much-advertised beauty spot. Nature has done much; the mountains, sea and forests are beautiful, but oh, the dirt of the city streets and the lack of proper eating places.

I was horrified to see the horse manure strewn on the main streets, thus encouraging flies and disease.

Why not use your paper to really clean up the streets instead of talking about the wonderful attractions?

VISITOR

Commendable Action

It is not out of place to commend the recent action of the B.C. Attorney-General, Robert Bonner, in giving no encouragement to the Retail Merchants Association that the Vancouver grocery stores will be allowed to sell beer and wine. His reason that there are sufficient liquor outlets is a wise one.

The problem that liquor drinking creates is bad enough to the whole community without making liquor any easier to obtain.

Having the welfare of the community at heart should we not be willing to forego the profits made from the manufacture and sale of this commodity and also our personal indulgence in its consumption?

Change of Name

Last month in Toronto the NFLY (The National Federation of Labor Youth), a well-known communist front, changed its name to The Socialist Youth League of Canada.

According to Monica Samuelson, its provincial secretary, two of the aims of this communist front are:

1. To discuss the transition to socialism throughout the world.

2. Agreement on a common perspective for a socialist Canada.

Owing to the odor that has been created by the word communism the Russian communists are using the term "socialism" almost exclusively now. They are constantly changing their tactics and titles to "throw the unwary" in their endeavor to get recognition in the Western world.

Runaway Armaments

THE role Mr. Stassen has to play in the London disarmament talks is a very difficult one — that of negotiator for a group of governments all with diverse opinions among their own people. This is the great advantage of Mr. Zorin, who speaks for a government that can take quickly decisions that will not be questioned at home. It is not surprising, then, that in the give-and-take the Russians have gotten the initiative and have the ears of the world.

There is reason to think that four leading powers on the Western side — Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States — have not come to a full understanding on a fundamental question. This was revealed last week, I think, in the letter which Mr. Macmillan sent to Marshal Bulganin.

Speaking of a Soviet proposal for "immediate full-scale reduction in the armed forces of the major powers," Mr. Macmillan said that his government could not agree to that unless it were at the same time "assured of parallel settlements in the political field" — particularly a settlement which could end on Western terms the division of Germany.

Most Need

Then at the end of his letter, after repeating that "great problems still divide us" about Germany, about Hungary, about the Middle East, Mr. Macmillan said in his last paragraph that "among the major international questions the one where there is most need for progress is the field of both conventional and nuclear disarmament."

What we have here are two propositions: the first, that extensive reduction in armaments cannot be agreed to until there are political settlements of the great world problems; the second, that among all international questions the one where there is the most need of progress is disarmament.

My own view is that both propositions are true, and that the real, and as yet unresolved problem of disarmament is to work out an allied policy which reconciles them.

All the major Western powers are beset by the conflict between these two propositions.

The practical question is how to make some progress towards disarmament without becoming substantially disarmed before the great political issues are settled. On the whole, the Conservatives do not want to go far towards disarmament until they feel assured that Germany will be reunified on the terms proposed by the West.

British Labor and the German Social Democrats, on the other hand, want to move faster and further towards disarmament, and they are willing at the same time to modify the terms on which they would settle political issues, like that of German reunification.

How much disarmament would be enough to meet the "need for progress"? How much disarmament would be too much if there is no political settlement of the German question?

These are hard questions. Yet it is not impossible, I think, to see the general principle of an answer.

What all the nations need in the near future is not so much to reduce the armaments they now have as to put some limit on the competition which threatens to become intolerably dangerous, expensive and nerve-racking.

Crucial Fact

The crucial fact is that the current race of armaments, which began with the Second World War, is radically different not only in degree but in kind from any which has preceded it. For military technology is advancing so rapidly — is rendering obsolete today what was thought to be highly advanced yesterday — that statesmen and people no longer understand their own armaments sufficiently to base stable policies upon them.

They cannot calculate the cost, except that they know that to stay ahead in the race they must commit themselves to expenditures that will constantly rise.

"The net of it all is that armaments are no longer the mere reflection, as they were in the past, of the political tensions among the powers. Because of the galloping, indeed runaway, technological revolution, the race of armaments has become not a secondary but a primary problem.

Must Be Done

That is why Mr. Macmillan, we may take it, after adhering to the traditional position that armaments must reflect the political situation, went on to declare that something must be done about armaments even though nothing is done about the political situation.

That something, which most needs to be done is what, if I have understood him correctly, the President advocated in last week's press conference. It is to work out an agreement with reasonable guarantees which will be in the nature of a standstill in the race of nuclear armaments.

An agreement to suspend for a trial period the testing of nuclear weapons would be such a standstill. It would not be disarmament. It would not be a settlement of the great issues that divide the world. But it would introduce into a competition that is becoming wildly irrational the principle of reason and the quality of good sense.

It's No Joke

From The Times, London

IS THERE such a thing as a new joke?

And, if not, what was the date when the last one was invented? Does an old joke become new, if, instead of an Englishman, an Irishman, and a Scotsman being involved, the parties concerned are a Hungarian, a Swede, and an Italian?

Questions like this may well be asked in Washington soon when Mr. George Q. Lewis, director of the National Association of Gag-Writers, is going to plead for legislation which would give members some form of copyright protection.

For Mr. Lewis believes that not all jokes are old jokes and, furthermore, he is quoted as asserting that joke-stealing has become a profitable industry and that joke-stealers go to night clubs armed with portable tape-recorders to skim the cream, as it were, off the entertainment and then sell it elsewhere.

The thought of the joke-stealers flickering to and fro in the dim lights of the plush clubs while the star does his, or her, stuff, is a fascinating one.

But joke-stealing — joke-stealers, according to Mr. Lewis, sell transcriptions to comedians for £18 a week — is anything but a laughing matter.

It is a low form of crime, above dog-stealing, certainly, but far removed from the brave traditions of honest smuggling. It is impossible to imagine a jolly joke-stealer; furthest his profession, if that be the right word, has to be. But there is something infinitely depressing about it as well.

Clowns, of course, are always suffering from broken hearts — the condition amounts to an occupational disease — and comedians, especially, one might think, those prepared to hand out £18 to seedy characters who give code knocks on dressing-room doors, live in a perpetual yearning to play Hamlet.

Yet what is their case compared with that of the man condemned to a life of recording other people's jokes by secret and illegal means?

The whole world of joke-stealing is, however, as remote and improbable as that which sees spies intent not on stealing the plans of the fortress or the latest thing in nuclear devices but on penetrating the inner sanctums of fashion houses to discover whether the geck line next autumn will drop by an inch or the waist be hoisted up to the chest.

Besides, Mr. Lewis will probably be wasting his time if he concentrates on night-club snoopers. If Wall Street is anything like the London stock Exchange, the man to watch is the smart operator who takes his tape-recorder there.

The Punching Bag

"LOOK at that old punching bag," you said?

My dear, you're cracked. That, for all its leathery look, is no punching bag.

That's a woman columnist!

Mind you, I'll admit that she performs the function of a punching bag for her readers. But I don't believe in calling a spade a spade.

No, they don't punch her all the time. They seem to do it more in bouts. And some of them are very gentle. Their punches are scarcely more than taps. Tiny pushes in the right direction!

Ruth

But now and again, of course, she gets a little breathless and begins to reel a bit. That's why she's developed a habit of ducking suddenly to escape a blow from an unexpected quarter.

For they've hit her in some very funny places, I can tell you.

When, in a mood of flippant gaiety, she wrote about "this curious and unnatural institution we call marriage" they tapped her more in sorrow than in anger. They sent her pamphlets on how to be a womanly woman and like it. They wrote her more or less in the vein of "Submit, my dear. It is the Lord's will." And, as this PB has been "submitting" for more than 20 years and is really rather fond of what she yanked out of the matrimonial grab bag, it left her just a little dizzy.

When she wrote that she preferred simple funerals, she was told she was crucifying the undertakers.

When she was concerned about the Maltheusian theory, she was corrected by a practical reader who said that we need never worry about the world's population outstripping the world's food supply since every human being produces enough manure to feed himself. (And this fascinating thought still occurs to her in nightmares!)

When she writes that in this shrinking world we should try to study the tenets of non-Christian faiths so that we can better understand the people who adhere to them, she knows exactly the direction from which she may expect a determined but very gentle blow.

If she uses the word "alright" she knows that somewhere, among the great unsigned, there's a reader who longs to administer a quick academic rap. (There are two forms, "All right" and "alright." They're not interchangeable. They mean quite different things. And I don't give a darn what the grammars say!)

When she carelessly used the word "England" instead of "Britain" she was given a polite, corrective knock by someone who was better informed on British history. (After what date should you start using "Britain" instead of "England"? No, look it up yourself. I'm not telling!)

When, once, she made a definite error in connection with Canadian history, no corrective blow came at all, although she was shivering in her shoes, and practically weeping on her husband's shoulder. (Queer, wasn't it? Don't Canadians care about their history?)

But, gosh, it's fun. I do enjoy it. It keeps me on my toes.

So, please, those of you who recognize yourselves, take it in good part. Because this old bag is just in the mood for a few teasing punches back.

Cartooning Canada

LONDON—Here and there . . . CANADA is well to the fore in a recent issue of Punch, with three of its 15 cartoons devoted to the Dominion. One shows a member of the visiting contingent of Mounties arriving at a horse show with a burglar and his loot roped to the back of his horse.

Another gives Punch's idea of the type of poster Russia would bring out to deter people from going to Canada—a plutocrat sinks his teeth into a succulent steak while a half-starved waiter looks on enviously.

The third depicts a street salesman playing the queues outside London's Canada Immigration Office with snow shoes and geiger counters.

SOMETHING NEW for the girls here (but perhaps no novelty to you) is the "three-way bag." This handbag comes in a variety of colors. The one I saw was in white, red and black.

How the trick works is that it is a white bag with a folder encasing it that is red on one side and black on the other. This folder can be attached to the bag with clips, or left at home, which means that you have a choice of three bags in one—white, red and black, or red velvet or black grosgrain. Price $3.50 and selling like hotcakes.

THOSE OF YOU who were amused by Stephen Potter's books on "gamesmanship" (who wasn't?) will be interested to learn that he has signed a contract with Carl Foreman, who made High Noon, to write, direct and act in a series of films on the art of being a gamesman. They'll be on the lines of the famous Robert Benchley How To—shorts that enlivened many a movie program in prewar days.

ADD TO THE LIST of important publications likely to fold up: the national Sunday Reynolds's News. A spokesman for the Co-operative movement, which is behind the paper, says it will have to cease publication if it doesn't get more support. Which prompts me to draw to the attention of any Canadian newspaperman contemplating a move here to work that there is at present a cool wind blowing from Fleet Street.

Not feeling the TV pinch, however, is the Sunday Times, which is booming to the extent of running regular 28-page issues. This doesn't please all its readers, though, for one of them wrote in to complain of "the deluge of print" and to plead for the return to 12-page papers.

So conditioned have the English become to their 15 years of newspaper shortage that the 28-pager that would make a Canadian feel he was being gyped makes an Englishman feel overburdened with reading matter.

BUSY ALEC GUINNESS, just finishing the film comedy Barnacle Bill, goes straight into the movie version of Daphne Du Maurier's latest best-seller, The Scapegoat, and then stars in two films from famous Evelyn Waugh books—Scoop and The Loved One.

MARKET SUMMARIES

6th Straight Drop Marked at Toronto

Prices continued to decline today on the Toronto Stock Exchange in light trading as the market stretched its downward trend to a sixth straight session.

Western oils led the index losses with a dip of 1 1/2 points. Industrials were off more than 1 1/2 points and base metals 1 1/4 points. Golds were narrowly higher.

Steels were the heaviest losers among industrial groups. Steelco was off a point to 70.

With oils and chemicals taking the sharpest losses the New York market dipped today. Key stocks were off from fractions to four points. Gulf Oil dropped about four points. Du Pont was down about two.

AT TORONTO utilities and financial institutions were the only groups to have any gains as losses. Other losers were Eureka and Sapphire Petroleum. Gains of 1-1/2 each. Down of a point or more were Traders Finance A, Ford A and International Paper. Consolidated Paper added 1 1/2 points to 34 1/2.

Seven Canadian Companies Among World's Largest

NEW-YORK (CP) — Seven Canadian corporations are in a list of the world's 100 largest industrial concerns, excluding U.S. firms, compiled by Fortune magazine.

They are Aluminium Ltd., 22nd in the list; International Nickel, 27th; Hiram Walker-Ferguson, 32nd; Massey-Ferguson, 33rd; Steel of Canada, 37th; Canadian Breweries, 62nd, and MacMillan and Bloedel, 88th.

The top 10 are: Royal Dutch-Shell, controlled by Britain and Holland; Unilever, also an Anglo-Dutch concern; Imperial Tobacco, British Petroleum, and Imperial Chemical Industries, all British; Nestle, Swiss; Dunlop Rubber, British; Mannesmann, German; Hawker Siddeley, British; and Friedrich Krupp, German.

N.Y. Herald Tribune Hikes Retail Price

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune announced Sunday it will increase the retail price of its weekday editions to 10 from five cents a copy outside a 100-mile zone from New York City effective Tuesday, July 2.

The price will remain five cents a copy in the New York metropolitan area and other areas within the 100-mile zone.

New Evidence in U.S. Of Tight Money Trend

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
NEW YORK (AP) — The arrival of summer, 1957, this week found American business enjoying something more than boom conditions but still doing quite well in most respects.

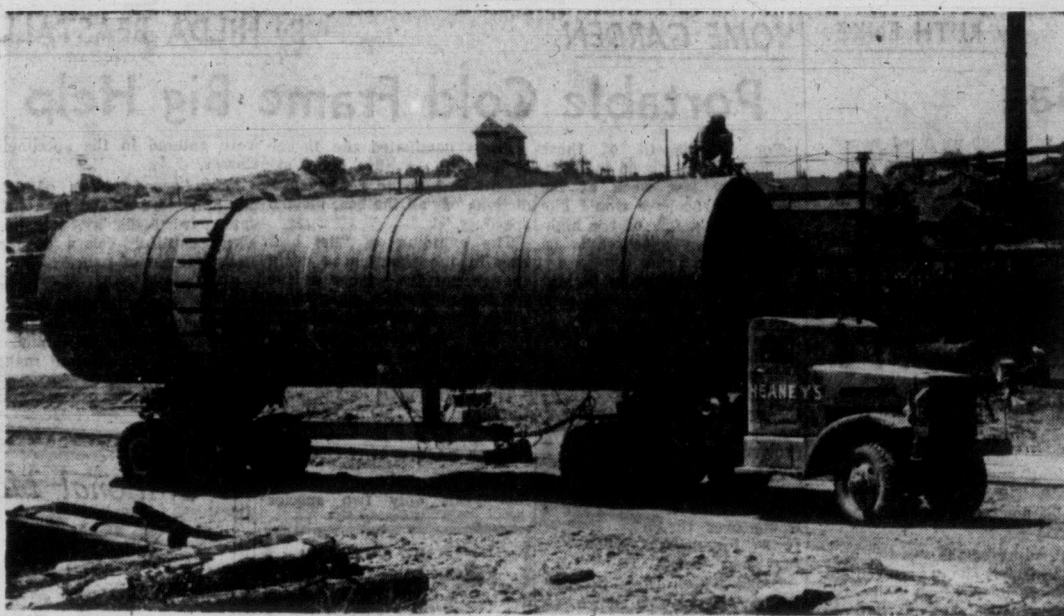

Some economists summed up the picture this way: Business generally was making out all right in sales and profits, and was not faced with some of the headaches that go with a boom.

Key business indicators presented a mixed pattern. Torrid weather bolstered air-cooling demand and pushed electric output 3 1/2 per cent above last week. Retail stores rang up higher sales, with summer apparel in good demand.

The automobile situation showed little improvement. Buick prepared for a two-week shutdown for inventory. Chrysler's Dodge and DeSoto divisions announced major cut-backs to balance dealer inventories.

Modernization Completed At B.C. House

B.C. House in London is being renovated to provide more space.

The June News Letter put out from the office of Agent-General

W. A. McAdam reports that the venerable building on Regent

Street has been modernized within.

It now is a showpiece of B.C.

woods which were donated by lumbermen here. The general design incorporates the use of western red cedar, hemlock, figured plywood and hardboard.

The replanning was made necessary by the steadily increasing number of visitors to B.C. House.

Besides the 2,500 travellers from the province who call in each year, more and more immigration in-

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Further harvest delays in the southwest caused buying in wheat futures today on the Board of Trade and prices climbed more than two cents in some instances.

Strength in wheat spread into corn, oats and rye, but soybeans were mixed and generally weak most of the time.

Winnipeg (CP) — All prices were firm in quiet trading today on the Winnipeg Stock Exchange, reflecting advances on U.S. markets due to unfavorable crop weather. May contracts reappeared on the board.

Barley attracted some export orders, and trade reports indicated small sales to the United Kingdom. Oats dealings were domestic.

Flax trade included shipper orders and elevator hedges. Rye was higher, reflecting possible damage to the American rye crop.

Weekend export wheat loadings included: East Germany 430,000 bushels, West Germany 610,000, Japan 265,000, Belgium 75,000, United Kingdom 65,000, and Rhodesia 40,000.

Whatever It Is, It Was All There

You can take your pick . . . but whatever it is, the minor baseball players provided it as they threw a little bit of everything into their weekend action.

There were tense mound duels, and Saanich's Babe Ruth League provided one of the best, a 1-0 victory by Bapco Paints over Island Decorators at Reynolds Road Park.

The same tussle provided some dazzling base-running. Don May, a Bapco pitcher, supplied the game's only run after singling and then stealing the next three bases to help battery mate Charlie Mahon to victory.

Other leagues provided hitting action, to wit: Ed Pottinger blasted a grand slam homer in the third inning to give Optimists and pitcher Pete Lequesne a 6-5 nod over UCT in Victoria Babe Ruth League activity at Beacon Hill Park Sunday.

There were extra-inning battles and some great rallies, including the one Dowell's Cartage pulled off at Windsor Park to gain a 7-7 Colt League draw with Victoria Tire.

Whatever it was, the minors had it Sunday.

Triple Sweep Features Net Championships

Sharon Whittaker, defending singles champion, scored a triple as the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club wrapped up its week-long club championship Saturday afternoon.

Miss Whittaker held on to her singles title by defeating Pam Ferguson 6-1, 6-4 and then teamed up with Tommy Elmsley to share the ladies' doubles crown. She completed her sweep by joining with George MacMinn to walk off with the mixed doubles championship.

The defending men's singles and doubles champions also held on to their titles.

Top seed Ron Mitchell nipped Ted Smythe 6-1, 6-4, 3-6 and 6-3 to keep his singles title. Smythe gained some measure of revenge in the men's doubles, joining in partnership with Carl Brandt to defeat Mitchell and Jack Butt in a thrilling doubles final. Scores were 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 3-6 and 10-8.

The Whittaker-Elmsley duo downed Miss Ferguson and Myrja Petersen 6-4 and 6-3 in the ladies' doubles while Miss Whittaker and MacMinn wrapped up the mixed event with a 6-2, 4-6 win over the Petersen-Brand pairing.

EDDIE TRYING
MONTREAL (CP) — Promoter Eddie Quinn said Friday he is trying to line up a Montreal bout between Yvon Durelle and Archie Moore for the world light-heavyweight championship or a rematch between Durelle and Tony Anthony.

N. Wallace and Bardon captured the mixed doubles with a 6-4, 6-2 conquest of V. Pearson and J. Scott.

E. Hills defeated N. Wallace 6-4 for the ladies' flight singles and the men's title went to E. Wilson, who trounced B. Haddock 6-4, 6-0.

Morse on Mark In VDRA Shoot

Sharpshooting Franie Morse, scoring strongly in longer-range events, topped a strong field Saturday to capture high aggregate honors in the Victoria and District Rifle Association annual prize shoot at Hea's Ranges.

Morse, a veteran shot who fires under Canadian Scottish Regiment colors and is a perennial threat in provincial and Dominion matches, scored 219 points out of a possible 225.

He scored a perfect possible 50 at 500 yards, 48 at 200, 49 at 300, and an excellent 72 at 600 yards.

Const. Bob Walker of the RCMP was runner-up in the aggregate with 218, and Peter Roche, a young air cadet, was third. Roche was the only marksman to fire two possibles. Others to chalk up perfect marks were Dave McCreedy, Walker, Fred Richardson, Eileen Learoyd, Ron McCreedy, D. Murphy and Mary Robinson.

Walker captured the opening event while Richardson took the second match. Third match went to Dave McCreedy while E. Henly won the cadet aggregate title and R. Fullerton the tyro.

Aggregate scores:
Franie Morse 219, Bob Walker 218, Peter Roche 218, Maj. A. E. Evans 217, Ron McCreedy 216, Dave McCreedy 215, Walter Burch 215, Bill McCoubrey 215, Mary Robinson 214, Fred Richardson 214, R. Parsons 213, Eileen Learoyd 213, Ed Raby 213.

Scouts' Good Turn Knows No Bounds — Guides Get Aid

By PETE LOUDON

A party of Boy Scouts biked to the north end of Elk Lake Sunday to clear brush on the site of a camp where they'll never pitch a tent.

It meant pedalling 16 miles then turning their backs on the inviting swimming area while they wrestled with stumps and whipping saplings.

The leader drove in from Sidney.

It was one of those "good turns" expected of the boys. The camp will be used by Girl Guides.

There was no stickiness, nor argument when the phone call came on Saturday.

"They want us to help out," So plans for weekend ball games, picnics, fishing or just loafing in the sun, were dropped.

TWO TROOPS

The boys were from the Victoria Chinese troop and the Third Victoria troop. They join for a number of stunts. Recently it was a weekend hike where the individual patrols had to follow a compass course.

That was the day they discovered a huge "metal deposit" in a mountain in John Dean Park. Five patrols found their courses skirted the mountain, each followed the same route, almost in each other's footsteps.

OFF COURSE

They found at day's end they were all three degrees off course. Each compass had been pulled out of kilter the same amount by the magnetic force hidden in the mountain.

The thing is, with Scouting, there is a sense of accomplishment. They can do things other boys their age, and older, can't do. And when you're out in the woods with a compass, an axe, a billy-can and a bedroll, no parent is robbing you of responsibility.

There's a job to do. There's a chance to prove yourself, and the lazy guy can stay home.

WORTH JIBS

It's worth the jibes at the short pants, the sunburns, the nights the rain creeps into the tent, and the ashes in the beans.

The same attitude will show through on Saturday when the Scouts and their "little brothers," the Wolf Cubs, sell apples on Greater Victoria street corners.

For every contribution to Scouting, residents will get good value — a succulent, crunchy apple, and about 3,000 top-flight future citizens.

Premier's Talk Took Longer in Japanese

Talking to 11 Japanese industrialists through an interpreter is a long-winded task—but when the interpreter is as brilliant as Toshiro Baba of Tokyo it is not so formidable.

Mr. Baba listened closely to a five-minute speech by Premier Bennett at a luncheon given to a Japanese iron and steel mission at the Empress Hotel last week and immediately got up and delivered a fluent translation.

Mr. Baba's translation, however, was nearly two minutes longer than the premier's original speech—probably because he is so careful to interpret English words correctly in the bell-like Japanese tongue.

SIGNIFICANT

The premier welcomed Shiga Kawada, chairman of the mission, and his colleagues and said their visit was "very significant."

He also translated a speech by Mr. Kawada in which he hoped members of the B.C. government would visit Japan and study industrial conditions there.

In an interview, Mr. Kawada said Japan produced 13,000,000 tons of crude steel and 10,000,000 tons of finished steel in 1956.

HOME NEEDS

"We need most of our steel output for home needs," he said, "but we managed to export 1,100,000 tons in 1956. This year we are trying to increase our export to 2,000,000 tons."

Mr. Kawada nodded enthusiastically when tourist trade to Japan was mentioned.

"We hope the air line services will open up a big two-way tourist traffic between Canada and Japan... We hope we want to know each other better."

Injured Boys' Damage Suit Appeal Lost

A Victoria family has lost its appeal for damages for a fractured skull sustained by their 12-year-old boy three years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright, 188 Bushby, had alleged that their son, Albert James, now 15, suffered a fractured skull when Blair McLean of Victoria threw a stone and hit him on the head.

They had sued McLean for $956 medical expenses and unstated general damages.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane dismissed the suit and the appellate court sustained the dismissal in a decision handed down in Vancouver Friday.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Billy Ott, age 13, Fairlea, W. Va., for his question:

Why Is the Okapi Called a Living Fossil?

A fossil is the remains of something which lived in the dim, distant past. Fossilized bones, teeth and shells tell us of animals who lived millions of years ago. Some, like the dinosaurs, perished from the earth. Only their fossilized bones tell us that they ever existed. Some, like Eohippus, the spool-sized dawn-horse, left children who changed and improved themselves. Experts can recognize the fossil stages and so trace back the horse's family tree. The little fossil ancestor no longer exists, but his descendants survive in the noble, modern horse.

The fossil ancestor of the skyscraper giraffe dates back 15 million years. We call him palaeotragine and he looks rather like a small-headed mule. This fossil ancestor roamed over Europe and Asia. His food was leaves; he munched from high branches. Hence, his tall children were more likely to survive than the shorter ones, for they could reach enough suitable food. The tall ones were also more likely to live and have tall children like themselves. In thousands of generations the shorties became weeded out. The descendants of palaeotragine were all skyscrapers with long necks and long legs—or so we thought. These were the giraffes, well suited for munching leaves from the acacia trees that grew across the plains of Africa.

Sixty years ago, the naturalists thought that all the sizeable animals of Africa had been listed. But the little brown pygmies told of a strange animal who lived deep in their dark jungles. Henry Stanley, the American who searched for the dedicated Dr. Livingstone, reported this rumor. People became interested. The Pygmies then produced some scraps of skin and finally a whole skin and two skulls to prove that this shy creature existed.

This evidence was proof enough that an unknown animal did live in the jungle. He was discovered and named the okapi. The timid fellow looked like a small-headed mule and it was obvious to the experts that he was a relative of the giraffe. In fact, he seemed to be a copy of that mule-sized fossil ancestor of the giraffe.

Some of the children of old palaeotragine, it seems, had gone to live in the deep rain forests. They had no need to reach high for rich tree foliage and so tallness was not important. The children grew up to look just like their parents. Out on the plains only the tall cousins could survive, for only they could reach enough food for themselves.

Through countless generations, the giraffes on the plain became skyscrapers. The okapi cousins in the forest remained like palaeotragine, who was the ancestor of both the giraffe and the okapi. The okapi was indeed a living copy of his ancestor and so people called him a living fossil.

Since the discovery, okapis have been shipped to zoos around the world. The living fossil is a gentle creature and very handsome. His velvety coat is rich chocolate brown, his legs are banded with rows of cream-colored garters and the end in dainty hoofs. The gentle face is also cream-colored and the head crowned with long slender ears and a pair of velvety horns. His bones and maybe his coat are living copies of those fossil ancestors who roamed over Europe and Asia 15 million years in the past.

Parkville Group: Capacity crowd attended the annual father and son banquet sponsored by the local group committee in the Legion Hall last Saturday.

The boys were soon two or three helpings ahead of their dads.

Scout Jimmy Lundine proposed the toast to the fathers "who come in all shapes and sizes." The reply was given by Cliff Leffler who said that fathers were rightfully proud of sons who had joined the Cubs and Scouts.

R. J. P. Higgins welcomed the fathers, on behalf of the group committee.

H. R. Haynes, president of the Mount Arrowsmith District Association, complimented the Parkville group on having two Cub packs and a Scout troop. He recalled that he had been a member of the group while residing in Parkville nine years ago. He expressed his pleasure in progress made since there lead the groups in a series of spirited and enjoyable scout games.

TOPICS

The Vancouver Chamber Orchestra next Thursday will be conducted by Victoria Symphony leader Hans Gruber in the first Canadian broadcast of Beethoven's "Jena" symphony, a work which pre-dates his numbered symphonies and which was discovered in 1912.

The broadcast will be on Trans Canada network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

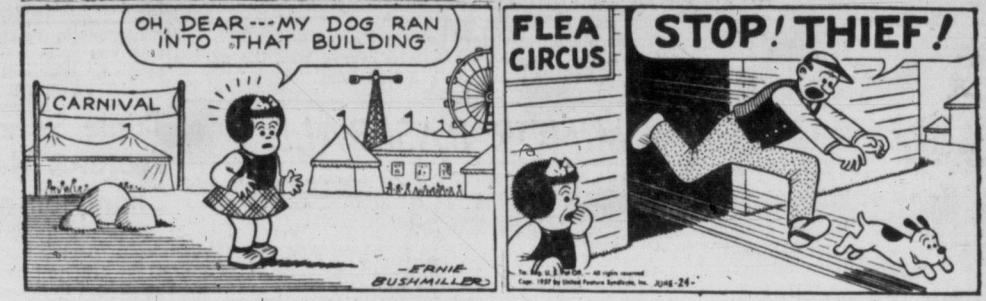

Mr. Gruber introduced the work to Canada in 1946 when he conducted the University of Toronto Symphony.

The performance will be heard starting at 9.15 p.m.

Orphans Show They Belong

Victoria Orphans, riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, steamed into a first-place tie with Chemainus in the Mid-Island Baseball League as they swept their second straight double-bill from Duncan, 6-2 and 9-4.

Receiving two-hit pitching from George Holt, Orphans made eight safeties good for six runs in the first game.

In the second, Victoria knocked three Duncan hurlers from the mound before the end of the second inning. Stan Smith collected three hits in four trips, including a first-inning double, for Orphans.

2 NEWLY-FAMOUS PRAIRIE MEN TO MEET IN BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—Two men from the same town on the Canadian prairies, who found new fame recently, will meet in London this week.

They are Prime Minister Diefenbaker and tenor Jon Vickers, both from Prince Albert, Sask.

Vickers won acclaim in Hector Berlioz' "The Trojans" at London's Covent Garden shortly before Mr. Diefenbaker's surprise triumph in the elections.

Mr. Diefenbaker has a date to see Vickers sing in "The Trojans."

AT BUTCHART'S GARDENS MacMillan Here For July Concert

Sir Ernest MacMillan, famed ex-conductor of Toronto Symphony Orchestra, will conduct one of the three open-air concerts to be given by Victoria Symphony Orchestra at Butchart's Gardens on July 11, 18 and 25.

Sir Ernest's performance will be on Thursday, July 18.

On Thursday, July 11, with Hans Gruber conducting, Victorians will hear Eileen De Tullio, coloratura soprano from New York, who was a finalist in the 1957 Metropolitan Opera auditions of the air.

On Thursday, July 25, the featured soloist will be the auditions winner, Charles O'Neill, tenor, of Stratford, Conn.

GREAT INTEREST

The number of Butchart concerts this year has been increased to three because of the enormous interest shown in them by music lovers in all parts of Canada and the United States.

Symphony Society officials say they have had hundreds of inquiries from as far away as Los Angeles, Chicago, Toronto and Philadelphia.

The perfect setting for good music offered by the gardens seems to have caught the imagination of music lovers everywhere.

As in past years, the only charge for the concerts will be the regular admission to the grounds, where nearly 10,000 persons went for the two concerts last summer.

Last year, guest artists at the concerts came from the Canadian "Singing Stars" radio program.

Lightning Kills Kentucky Professor

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A University of Kentucky professor was killed and the manager of Calumet Farm was critically injured Saturday when lightning struck their electric golf cart on the Lexington Country Club course.

Dr. A. B. McEwen, a member of the law faculty, was killed when he was knocked from the cart. Paul Ebel Hardt, manager of the famed thoroughbred horse farm, was injured critically.

Nehru Dances 20 Minutes Around Swedish Maypole

HAMRA, Sweden (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru cavorted gaily around a maypole here Sunday. So vigorously did the 68-year-old Indian visitor dance that his host, Prime Minister Tage Erlander, became worried.

As he approached to inquire, Erlander also was pulled into the ring of dancers, which gradually grew to include the whole Swedish cabinet and many ambassadors.

Driver of First Auto Dead at 89

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Charles Brady King, 89, credited with designing and driving the first automobile in Detroit 61 years ago, died Sunday. King completed his first car, powered by a four-cylinder gasoline engine, March 6, 1896, and drove it down Detroit's Woodward Avenue. At about the same time he helped Henry Ford in constructing the first experimental Ford car.

(BB TO A) "THIS COULD BE THE NIGHT" (Royal)—Those who demand that their plot be as true to life as a slip on a banana peel may not care for MGM's spot of whimsy entitled "This Could Be the Night." However, others, who enjoy fiction for fiction's sake, should get a fine, rollicking chuckle from it. It is a comedy with a difference.

Pretty schoolteacher Jean Simmons gets part time employment with reformed racketeer Paul Douglas who runs a high-price dive. When handsome young junior partner Anthony Franciosa, who has more girls on the string than Ziegfeld, and the rest of the staff hear that Jean has a college degree such is their reverence that a great wave of reformation sets in.

PROPRIETOR D. DOUGLAS begins to dress with the alleged conservatism of a junior executive straight from the Ivy League. The bus boy bones up on algebra (with Jean's help). Even Franciosa begins to wonder if it's worth while seeking safety in numbers.

But "This Could Be the Night" also gets excellent support from the minor characters. Nellie Adams as the bump-and-grille gal with the yen for cooking, is wonderful. So is Joan Blondell as an ex-burlesque queen and mother of Nellie, and singer Julie Wilson who enchants with such tunes as "Sadie Green (The Vamp of New Orleans)." Music is supplied by Ray Anthony and his orchestra.

"This Could Be the Night" is a provocative title for a provocative play. That it has nothing whatever to do with the theme not only doesn't matter but seems to keynote the whole delightful affair.

TOO YOUNG, TOO LOUD

Famed Trumpeter Charity Patient

CHICAGO (AP)—Lee Collins, now a charity patient at Cook County Hospital, blames the jazz trumpet that brought him fame for his ill health and the loss of his career.

The 35-year-old Negro, rated among the best of the early jazzmen, suffers from a dilated lung. Physicians say his lusty style of playing would have aggravated the condition and that he'll never play again.

Collins, who began in jazz in New Orleans before the First World War, sadly agrees that he has tooted his last note.

"Maybe it came from blowing too young and too loud," he said dejectedly in his ward at the hospital Sunday.

"I think I've played my last trumpet. I'm too weak to blow any more. I don't feel good at all."

Collins' career stretched from the gin mills of New Orleans' faded Storyville to Chicago and on to the Paris Opera House, where he collapsed from his ailment while playing in January, 1955.

Short Wave Club Tests Methods For Emergencies

Thirty members of the Victoria Short Wave Club took part in the 21st annual field day of the American Radio Relay League at Cordova Bay Saturday.

The club operated five complete two-way radio stations which were set up in tents on a hillside overlooking the bay. The radio stations were powered by a gasoline-powered generator.

The purpose of the field day was to test methods for emergency work and to "log" as many stations as possible.

Members reported they spoke to many remote stations throughout Canada and the United States.

Indian Maidens Break Tradition By Rock 'n' Roll

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three Indian princesses broke into a program of traditional tribal dances Friday night to stage a pantomime presentation of rock and rolling.

The change to modern beat, accompanied by the tom-toms of the Squamish tribal band, was the highlight of a Canadian Legion concert in aid of the Burrard Indian Reserve fund. Braves of the reserve joined in the atom-age dancing.

The princesses earlier performed age-old dances of their tribe, including the fawn dance, the eagle dance and the maiden's dance.

Big Ben Beaten By Rough Seas

NANAIMO (CP)—The first attempt by a man to swim the Strait of Georgia ended a quarter of the way across Sunday morning when Ben Laughren was ordered from the water by his coach, Dave McMillan.

He covered nearly seven miles of the 36 miles from Nanaimo to Vancouver. He entered the water at 2:55 a.m. and was pulled out at 6:58 a.m. Rough water was blamed for the failure of the attempt.

TRY AGAIN

He said afterwards he will again attempt the strait never previously tried, July 7 or 14, and will watch for more favorable weather.

The swimming chef from Victoria stopped for rest periods every hour, and took feedings of orange juice and glucose.

He was accompanied by the yacht Louisa, skippered by Harold Snider, Nanaimo Yacht Club commodore. Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce sponsored the swim.

Nanaimo Jaycees Ask Cable Ferry To Newcastle

NANAIMO (CP)—Plans for a cable ferry to provide transportation between Nanaimo and Newcastle Island will be sent by Nanaimo Junior Chamber of Commerce to city council for consideration.

Jaycee Lloyd Schopp said at the chamber's meeting Thursday night that the cable ferry plan had been obtained from the mayors of Southampton, England, where transportation needs are similar to Nanaimo's. The move follows a recent offer by millionaire Archibald B. Cleveland of $200,000 for the purchase of Newcastle Island. If the city will provide a bridge and other concessions.

Nanaimo Stores To Stay Open Friday Nights

NANAIMO — Retail Merchants' Association announced Saturday food stores will stay open to 9 p.m. Friday for July and August.

The opening will be in the nature of an experiment to win approval of the public and municipal and provincial authorities before making it permanent.

'SLOW ZONE' CUTDOWN ASKED BY PARKSVILLE

PARKSVILLE — Chamber of Commerce will ask the highways department to reduce the length of the 30-mile zone on the highway through here.

At present it extends between the southern and northern boundaries of the village. The chamber wants it shortened to include only the business section, because tourists have complained of traffic being retarded.

Fishermen Earned $1.8 Million in May

British Columbia fishermen earned $1,855,000 for their fish landings in May, according to the statistical report issued by the federal department of fisheries.

Halibut fishermen topped the list with a total catch of 7,640,000 pounds valued at $1,116,000. Of this total more than 1,100,000 pounds of halibut was caught in international waters off Alaska. Halibut unit prices were lower than last year as a result of substantial stocks carried over from the 1955 fishery.

SCHOOL LOAN APPROVED AT TOFINO

TOFINO—Ratepayers of Tofino-Ucluelet School District 79 gave overwhelming approval Friday to a $225,000 school loan referendum.

Terms call for expenditure of the money within four years of December 31, 1956.

About $40,000 of the money voted will be used for construction of a one-room junior high school at Tofino, and most of the balance will be spent on a five-room addition to the Ucluelet-Tofino High School in Ucluelet.

Variety Plus At Sidney Day Next Monday

SIDNEY—Annual Sidney Day celebration Monday will feature entertainment from mid-morning to midnight, the committee in charge announced today.

Festivities will begin at 10:30 a.m. when a parade will start moving through downtown Sidney to Sandown Park and race track.

Marching in the procession will be the Chinese Girls' Drill Team from Victoria, S. J. Willis Junior High School band, floats, Eagles' band and drill team, drum majorettes, military units and children's groups.

On arrival at the park, Barbara Whipple, chosen from among seven contestants, will be crowned as queen of the celebration by last year's queen, Freda Storey.

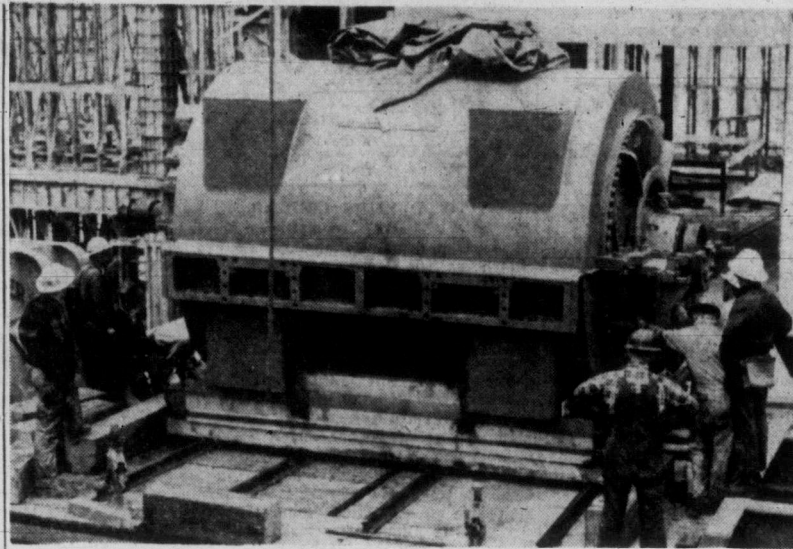

The new queen's attendants will be Lorrie Phorne and Diane Putte.

VARIETY

The program at the park, scheduled to start at 1 p.m., will feature exhibitions by Colwood Trail Riders, Victoria Motor-cycle Club, and the Sports Car Club of Victoria.

In between the main events there will be performances by drill teams, antics by clowns, and a tug-of-war between Trail Riders and Sidney firemen. Rides for children, a midway, and refreshment booths also will be in operation.

Free buses will operate between Sidney and the park, and parking will be free. Festivities will close with a dance in the evening.

COSTLY GENERATOR INSTALLED

Price of generator above, now installed at B.C. Power Commission generating station at Bare Point, near Chemainus, was over $1,000,000. One of four to be in finished plant, it weighs 70 tons, was shipped on special railway car. Generator will be driven by huge gas turbine, will be on load in August, according to power commission officials. (Flett Studio Photo.)

Victorians Form Mining Company To Consolidate W. Coast Claims

A group of Victoria businessmen have formed a new mining company to consolidate three separate groups of claims along the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The firm, Juan de Fuca Mining Co. Ltd., was incorporated May 14 with authorized capital of $1,500,000.

It is a private company at present, but president H. B. Weydert said there are plans to make it a public company.

Other officers are Russell B. Horton, vice-president; Allen E. Bigelow, secretary-treasurer; J. F. Lawlor, managing director; and A. Lorinde, director.

GOLD, COPPER

The three groups, comprising 35 claims in all, principally have showings of gold, copper and magnetite-iron ores.

They have been worked in the past and are close to tidewater.

Duncan Man Heads Moose Association

VANCOUVER (CP)—Gordon Braithwaite of Duncan, was sworn in as president of the B.C. Moose Association here Saturday by supreme lodge representative Pilgrim Brother Harry Howard of Moose Heart, Ill.

Other officers elected were: Jack Brande, Nanaimo; L. A. Goodrich, Prince George; J. M. Readman, Kamloops; J. R. McLean, Ocean Falls; and C. R. Morrison, Vancouver.

Victoria was selected as the site for next year's convention.

Drinking Water Won't Be Harmed By Regatta—MLA

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—Dan Campbell, Social Credit MLA for Comox, told the village commissioners Friday night that a regatta June 30 in John Hart head pond will be no danger to health if ordinary public health precautions are followed.

The pond is the source of Campbell River's drinking water. Mr. Campbell said he had taken the matter to the provincial minister of health.

The Outboard Motor Club plans to hold the regatta and 3,500 spectators are expected.

The commissioners said they still disapprove of the regatta being held there.

Exhibition Building Chosen Nanaimo Centennial Project

NANAIMO—An exhibition building to be known as "Centennial Centre" will be constructed this year at Exhibition Park as the city's centenary project.

Announcement of the project, to cost an estimated $26,000, was made today by George Molecey, centennial committee chairman.

The building, 200 by 80 feet, is badly needed, since exhibition board chairman Ray Knight had announced that the city might not be able to hold a fall fair this year without it.

ENTRIES DOUBLED

"We have already received double the number of industrial and stock entries of last year," he said, "and we will be in a precarious position without adequate housing."

Mr. Molecey said final approval for the project must come from the B.C. Centennial Committee in Victoria. Decision was made here at a joint meeting of the local centennial committee with Mayor Pete Maffeo and city council.

Mr. Molecey said two larger projects, abandoned chiefly because of the "throttling influence of tight money," were a $100,000 library and a $150,000 swimming pool.

George Darling, library board chairman, said the idea was abandoned after several weeks of investigation because the board "could see no possible solution to possible financing of the building." Nanaimo Lions Club dropped its swimming pool plans for the same reason.

"The exhibition building is a much more realistic project," Mr. Molecey said.

SCENE OF CARNAGE AT DUNCAN HIGHWAY CRASH

One youth was killed and 10 injured when three cars collided near Duncan Saturday night. In foreground are David Nick, 18, driver of one of the cars involved, and a passerby. One of victims of crash is lying on pavement in foreground, and at rear are cars wrecked by jarring impact that scattered young occupants over road surface. (Flett Studio Photo.)

Racers Will Defy Saanich Ban On Big Elk Lake Regatta July 1

Speedboat races will be held on Elk Lake July 1 despite a ban by Saanich Council. A letter has been sent to Saanich council reporting that the club expects up to 80 entries, racing will be under auspices of the Canadian Boating Federation, stringent safety regulations will be applied, and liability insurance will be carried. Club officials said today they have tried for 20 years to have racing for one day each year on Elk Lake, but that various councils have passed the problem back and forth without ever have made a decision.

The club has wanted Elk Lake for the meet, largest ever held on Vancouver Island, for the following reasons: It is fresh water, and in case of upsets, damage to engines is minimized; viewing for spectators is excellent, and there is plenty of parking space; it is close to town, the water is warm, launching facilities are good, and there is little chance of being "blown out."

The course will be roughly parallel to the highway, and beaches and swimming will not be affected. Patrol boats will be on guard at all times.

MONTE ROBERTS

Recently several people have complimented me on the good behaviour of the livestock who live at our house. These people tell me I must certainly have a way with the animals, as the livestock obeys my every command. They are amazed, they say, to note even the small female-type cat obeys me, let alone the large female-type dog.

Well, I am flattered by this praise. But there is nothing to it, really, when you learn the simple secret.

The reason the large dog and the small cat both obey me implicitly is, I outthink them.

For instance, the large dog and I are playing the stick game. "Run after it," I say. "Pick it up. Bring it here ... take it away ... jump up with it ... drop it."

And the large dog goes through the routine perfectly. Now, take the small cat and the matter of food. When food is being readied for small cat, I say "wait," and then I say "okay," and she eats.

By this time, you are no doubt wondering what secret power it is I have over cats and dogs.

As I said before, there is nothing to it.

The way to become a wonder with animals is, figure out what the animal is going to do, then tell it to do it just before it does it.

If you find this a little difficult at first, there is another sure fire method of earning a reputation as an animal trainer.

Develop a command in some secret language of your own. Say the command is "Sniff."

You can, of course, say "Sniff" in varying tones. Then, every time you notice your animal about to do something, say "Sniff," and then after it does it, say "Good Dog" as if that's exactly what you wanted the animal to do.

(Unless the animal happens to be a cat, in which case you say "Good Cat" and as above.)

I am thinking seriously of expanding my theories of animal training from the field of dogs and cats to tigers and lions.

I will let you know how I make out.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The RCAF reports seaward and anti-aircraft firing will be carried out in the vicinity of Albert Head, on the following days:

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; July 3 and 4, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.; July 5, 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The ocean-travelling tanker World Glory is at Yarrow's Ltd. for quadrennial inspection and necessary repairs.

Work, including annual "scrape and paint" will take about six days unless major repairs develop.

King Bros. Ltd. is Victoria agent.

About 150 families and 75 senior citizens were aided on Saturday as Victoria donated generously to the free food stall.

Among the major donations were 75 to 80 pounds of salmon and cod from the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association.

An American family in Victoria for a holiday heard about the operation of the stall and gave large box of groceries.

A meeting of the Victoria branch, English-Speaking Union of the Commonwealth, will be held in the cafeteria of the Douglas Building tonight at 8. Miss Margaret Sanson will show pictures taken in Germany during a two year stay.

Two men told police early Saturday morning they had been assaulted on a Chinatown street by two unidentified men.

The pair, John Edward Cooper, 59, 1003 Dunsmuir, and Edward Cooper, 27, Coldcote Road, were treated for face cuts at Jubilee Hospital and discharged.

Elected at a Victoria Chamber of Commerce meeting last week as executive directors for the next two years were: S. P. Birley, Cyril Champan, H. B. Elworthy, William Gilmour, J. Courtney Haddock, W. G. Heany, Capt. G. R. Newell, W. A. Pendray and Max Zabel.

A small boy came close to burning down Sir James Douglas School Sunday afternoon at 4:32.

Investigating smoke in the building, police and firemen found a small boy had crawled under the auditorium floor and set fire to some papers in the confined space.

The lad was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Mervin H. Leadley, 229 Government, was fined $15 in Oak Bay police court Friday for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Higher salaries for provincial sheriffs and bailiffs were passed today by the cabinet.

In Victoria the sheriff's new monthly rate will be a minimum of $400 and maximum of $480, depending on length of service. The deputy sheriff will receive from $327 to $387 and bailiffs from $250 to $339.

A well-known Victoria grocer, Mr. Talbot was the leader of a campaign some 35 years ago which won a minimum wage for retail clerks.

He also was largely responsible for bringing about Wednesday afternoon closing for shops.

Born in Lancashire, England, Mr. Talbot came to Victoria in 1904 and throughout his life worked to improve the lot of retail clerks in B.C.

Search Continues

Search for 35-year-old brush salesman Arthur Yurkowski, 2624 Quadra, missing one week today, continues without leads, police report.

The man failed to return from his sales route Monday evening and was reported missing early Tuesday by his wife, mother of a 19 months old son.

A friendship club started in 1912 by four college chums has grown into what is now known across Canada and the United States as the Gyro International.

One of those four chums—Ed Kagey of Cleveland, Ohio—will be in Victoria this week to witness the extraordinary growth of this pioneer effort.

He will see nearly 1,000 members, wives and guests assembled at the first international Gyro convention to be held here since 1941.

FOR LIFE

"Ed Kagey and his three chums formed their Gyro group with the idea of perpetuating their friendship for life," Bart Carson, president of Victoria Gyro Club, which is host for the convention, said today.

"They had no idea this little

1 Dead, 10 Hurt In Duncan Crash

Gory, Tragic Prelude To Rock 'n' Roll Dance

A three-car crash, gory and tragic prelude to a rock 'n' roll dance in Duncan Saturday at 9:25 p.m., killed one youth and sent eight others to hospital.

Dead is Kenneth Meyer, 16, Cowichan High School student and driver of one of the cars involved.

Injured are: Ralph Carson, 14, brought to Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria Sunday night for special treatment, and described today as in "fair" condition; Douglas Mackie, Yubou; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Reiersen, both 21; Ray Hankins, 17; Barry Smith, 17; and Linda Marks, 14.

All except Carson are in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

Kenny was thrown through the windshield of his car," she said.

The accident occurred almost at the gate of the Meyer home on Gibbins Road, and the dead youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meyer, were at the scene immediately.

The boy was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Police have not yet determined the direction in which the cars driven by Meyer and Nick were travelling.

KENNETH MEYER ... died in crash

Released

Treated and released were David Nick, 18, driver of another of the cars; Sherman Hankins, 19; Carol Whittaker, 15; and two other youngsters as yet not identified.

RECONSTRUCTED

RCMP have not been able to reconstruct the crash scene, but they suggested one of the cars passed a car owned by Melvin Thomas, an Indian, and driven by Roy Miller, also an Indian.

PM Confirms Cassiar Road Cost Split

Confirmation of an offer made last February by the Liberal government to finance half the cost of the Cassiar-Stewart road in northwestern B.C. was given Saturday by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker on behalf of the new Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said at a press conference in Ottawa the government was prepared to grant up to $1,500,000 each year for four years. This would amount to half the $12,000,000 estimated cost of the road.

The announcement of federal participation in the road, which has been a centre of controversy in the province over the last two years, was made by then fisheries minister James Sinclair and later confirmed in the Commons by Resources Minister Jean Lesage.

There has been no actual construction on the road since it was the subject of a legislative committee inquiry in 1956.

It was charged at that time that patronage and waste of public funds was involved in construction of the road, which was classified as a mining assistance road.

An official of the provincial mines department said today there is little chance of construction going ahead this summer.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED

Traffic on the busy road was blocked until 11 p.m., one and one-half hours after the accident, and cars were backed up for about a mile on each side of the crash scene.

AMBULANCES

Ambulances from Duncan drove in relays to take the injured young people, almost all of them cut by flying glass, to hospital. A light rain was falling at the time, drivers of the two ambulances said.

POLICE

Police said charges of a minor nature would be laid against the driver of the Thomas car as a result of his not being able to stop his own car from hitting one of the cars carrying the teenagers. No other charges are pending at present, they said.

INQUEST

An inquest into Meyer's death will open Tuesday at 10 a.m., then will be adjourned until witnesses will be able to testify.

WITNESS

An eye-witness, Mrs. Ella Doidge, who called police and ambulances, said:

"It seemed that the second car moved out to pass the first one. The third, on following behind, smashed into it and then the two of them hit the one in front. It shot right across the road and smashed into some tree stumps.

"Bodies were thrown all over the road, and I think young

Retail Merchants' Association of Canada will go to city council Thursday with a list of 379 local merchants who want store hours to remain as they are.

Esquimalt Makes Full Payment On Sweeper Bill

Threat of legal action to collect an overdue bill for street cleaner services has brought full payment by Esquimalt Council, it was learned today.

COUN. J. E. CAREY

Coun. J. E. Carey said an emergency meeting of council held Thursday approved payment of $356 to Esquimalt Service Station. Payment had been delayed earlier on grounds the bill was exorbitant.

The street cleaner matter caused much debate at council this spring, Coun. George Artye, a director of the firm which owned the sweeper, was asked by Coun. Carey to resign.

Eight-year-old Sean McDonald, 2251 Kinross, bagged a catch on his first fishing derby Saturday, but got no prize.

Out on the Breakwater with a new rod for Knights of Columbus fishing derby, Sean hooked a valuable medical bag, which had been stolen from a visiting Seattle doctor's car last Tuesday night.

He yarded it in and took it home to show his mother, Mrs. Nelson McDonald, who sent him and the bag to city police.

One of Four Original Gyros Here Tuesday

A friendship club started in 1912 by four college chums has grown into what is now known across Canada and the United States as the Gyro International.

One of those four chums—Ed Kagey of Cleveland, Ohio—will be in Victoria this week to witness the extraordinary growth of this pioneer effort.

He will see nearly 1,000 members, wives and guests assembled at the first international Gyro convention to be held here since 1941.

FOR LIFE

"Ed Kagey and his three chums formed their Gyro group with the idea of perpetuating their friendship for life," Bart Carson, president of Victoria Gyro Club, which is host for the convention, said today.

"They had no idea this little group would grow into a great international friendship club consisting of thousands of Canadians and Americans of all ages from 21 to 71."

STARTS TUESDAY

An advance guard of executives met in the Empress Hotel today. General registration begins Tuesday.

This afternoon the executives, led by international president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver, visited the Gyro's community park development at Cadboro Bay, where $25,000 has already been spent on a bath house and toilet facilities for parents and children.

On Wednesday all delegates will move to Sooke Flats where the Gyros will hold their own "All Sooke Day" sponsored by Island clubs.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Kiwanis Club: Empress Hotel Ballroom, 12:10 p.m. Speaker W. H. Gaddes, head of Department of Psychology at Victoria College; subject "Some Aspects of Educational and Industrial Psychology."

Victoria North Kiwanis Club: Monterey Restaurant, 6:15 p.m. Speaker Reg. Patterson, former manager of Tyees baseball team.

WHY CAN'T I PLAY IN THE SAND?

BECAUSE YOU HAVEN'T GOT A SHOVEL! GO GET A SHOVEL, AND THEN YOU CAN PLAY!

Search for 35-year-old brush salesman Arthur Yurkowski, 2624 Quadra, missing one week today, continues without leads, police report.

Higher salaries for provincial sheriffs and bailiffs were passed today by the cabinet.

In Victoria the sheriff's new monthly rate will be a minimum of $400 and maximum of $480, depending on length of service. The deputy sheriff will receive from $327 to $387 and bailiffs from $250 to $339.

The man failed to return from his sales route Monday evening and was reported missing early Tuesday by his wife, mother of a 19 months old son.

A well-known Victoria grocer, Mr. Talbot was the leader of a campaign some 35 years ago which won a minimum wage for retail clerks.

He also was largely responsible for bringing about Wednesday afternoon closing for shops.

Born in Lancashire, England, Mr. Talbot came to Victoria in 1904 and throughout his life worked to improve the lot of retail clerks in B.C.

GARDEN PARTY ON WEDNESDAY

Performing dogs in costume will entertain guests at the annual garden party of the Caroline MacLennan Home to be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday at the home, 1322 Rockland Avenue. Other features will be the "Lady of the Thousand Pockets," stalls of home cooking, plants, candy and ice cream.

aprons, fancy work and superlatives. Tea will be served. Making plans for the event are pictured, left to right, Mrs. B. P. Harding, diocesan W.A. president; Mrs. N. Fredrickson, matron of the home; Mrs. R. O. Taylor, chairman of the board, and Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, general convener.

Roses Decorate Duncan Church For Morning Marriage Ceremony

Roses were placed at the altar of St. Edward's Catholic Church, Duncan, for the wedding Saturday morning of Regina Mary Bonokoski, daughter of Mrs. Bonokoski, Torquay, Sask., and the late Anton Bonokoski, to Sam Roozendaal, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Roozendaal, Alexander Street, Duncan. Rev. Father L. LeClaire officiated and high mass was sung by the church choir with Mrs. B. Goldie at the organ.

Pearson-Donald Wedding At St. Andrew's Church

At a ceremony Saturday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Dr. J. L. W. McLean heard the marriage vows of Claudia Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donald, 1270 Hastings Street, and Robert Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Pearson, 2867 Colquitz Avenue. Blue iris and white shasta daisies decorated the church. Organ music was played by C. C. Warren, and J. Bell sang "Because" during the signing of the register. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her floor-length gown of delicate chantilly lace and net over satin. Her veil misted to shoulder-length from a tiara, and she carried a cascade of red and white roses. Miss Wynona Foster and Miss Eleanor Archibald as bridesmaids wore ballarina-length gowns of embossed nylon over taffeta with matching headbands, the former in orchid and the later in blue. White roses were in their cascade bouquets. Albert Jones was best man and ushers were William Donald Jr. and George Wilmont. The reception was held at Loughheed's, where J. D. Grante proposed the bridal toast. The

Mrs. Smith Wins Yacht Club Prize

Buffet supper and a dance followed the annual predicted log race in which ladies of the Capital City Yacht Club took part. Mrs. Glen Smith received the Edna Henshall Trophy and a prize of a sleeping bag, while Mrs. Hetty Jamieson won the second prize of a fishing rod given by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lewis of Cole Island. Sidney. Mrs. Edith Rogers won third prize.

Graduation Rites For Explorers

Graduation exercises of the Explorer group of Fairfield United Church were held recently, attended by 130 mothers and daughters. A banquet followed. Leane Elliott was valedictorian, and graduates were Miss Elliott, Jennifer Sands, Marilyn Barbour, Shirley Butler, Jane Knott and Sylvia Pulloch. They were welcomed into CGIT by president Averilla Hayes. Miss Shirley Butler was soloist, and Miss Patsy McIvor played the organ.

In Honor of The Bride

Miss Elaine Stewart was honored prior to her marriage to R. G. Henning at a shower given by Mrs. J. Watt, 669 Grenville Street. Corsages were presented to the bride, her mother, Mrs. P. Stewart, and the groom's mother, Mrs. W. Henning. Miss Sylvia Barratt presented the gifts in a decorated basket. Invited were Mrs. A. Stewart, Mrs. J. Knowles Sr., Mrs. W. Thompson, Mrs. J. Vissor, Mrs. N. Patterson, Mrs. A. Parkinson, Mrs. E. Mathews, Mrs. J. Knowles Jr., Mrs. E. Taylor, Mrs. W. Barratt, Mrs. J. Hay, Mrs. G. McKenzie, Mrs. J. Watt, Mrs. James Watt, Misses Marlene Barratt, Jessie Craig, Pat Brown, Lorraine Patterson, Bernice Burley and K. Goodall.

Chapter Raises More Than $250 At Smorgasbord

More than 125 guests gathered at the seafarers home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Fowler, Thorpe Place, Saturday evening to enjoy a delicious smorgasbord.

The event has been sponsored annually for the past three years by the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, IOOE.

Today Mrs. Austin Flint, treasurer, announced that gross receipts amounted to more than $250. Peonies and roses were used to decorate the rooms. Guests filled their plates from platters of cold ham and turkey, casserole dishes of curried shrimp, chicken, meat balls in sauce, chili, and bowls of jellied and green salads, and carried them to tables inside and outside on the lawn. Jellied fruit and cake with coffee followed the main course.

Mrs. Fowler, regent, and Mrs. Daryl Elford, convener, welcomed the guests.

Other members assisting were Mrs. Flint, Mrs. Harry Buckle, Mrs. Herbert Barnes, Miss Laura Tebo, Mrs. Kay Boone, Mrs. John Church, Miss Ruth Caldwell, Mrs. Ida Castle and Mrs. Alan McFarlane. Mrs. Elsie Lethian had charge of a raffle.

COLORFUL COSTUME

First Sikh Wedding Performed in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The bride wore a red salwar, a red-and-gold kameez and a red, gold-fringed chunnie at one of the capital's most colorful weddings. Noni Maria Elisabeth Palar, 20-year-old daughter of Indonesian Ambassador Lambertus N. Palar and Mrs. Palar, and Sardar Indrajit Singh, 22, of Delhi, India, were married Sunday in the capital's first Sikh ceremony.

The couple will be married again today in an Indonesian ceremony, at the Indonesian Embassy, scene of Sunday's 1½-hour wedding.

They will also appear in county court today for a civil ceremony. The bridal dress consisted of salwar or bloomers, kameez—a blouse with three-quarter length sleeves—and a chunnie or shawl. The groom wore a light brown business suit and a saffron-colored, gold-fringed turban.

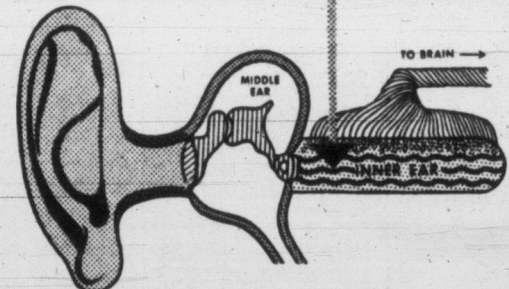

The wedding party was small.

Crew Quits Ship Over Wage Fight

An official of Dodwell and Co., the ship's agents, said he did not know where a new crew would be obtained or when the ship would sail. He said the crew had left after a dispute over their pay, which comes in pesos. He said the peso is being continually devaluated in terms of the Canadian dollar.

Ten officers of the Chilean freighter Almagro were involved in the dispute. A picket line was set up Friday around the vessel at terminal dock here. Members of the International Longshoremen's Union immediately stopped loading the ship but an injunction to stop the picketing was obtained for the owners later Friday.

The Dodwell official said the ship now is loaded and needs only a crew.

Captain Guillermo Munoz of the Almagro said the peso was worth less than usual in dollars Friday and the men "just decided they were not being paid enough."

GIRL SAVES FATHER

CULTUS LAKE—A 17-year-old girl plunged into the cold waters of Cultus Lake early Saturday to save the life of her father as he clung to an overturned boat.

The accident took the life of another man, Malcom Garnet McDonald, 42, of Cultus Lake. Saved from death by his daughter was Alex Vandrick, 42, also of Cultus Lake.

KIMBERLEY MINERS WIN

FERNIE—Kimberley mine rescue team No. 1 Saturday won the main event at the 36th annual East Kootenay mine rescue and first aid competitions.

The team, which last year won both the East Kootenay event and the first provincial mine rescue competition, was captained by Terry Bloomer. Coal Creek team led by Leonard Brett was second and the Michel team led by Jim Walsh took third place.

BY-LAW DEFEATED

KAMLOOPS—City taxpayers Saturday voted 527 to 434 against a proposal to extend the city limits.

Only 34 per cent of eligible voters cast polls in the plebiscite on a proposed by-law which would annex 810 acres of surrounding land. The result was 133 votes short of the number needed for approval.

SOAP BOX WINNER

VANCOUVER—Bill Gagnon, 13, took the $100 scholarship and the Mount Pleasant Trophy at the Vancouver soap box race Saturday.

There were 15 youngsters entered.

Wrist watches went to Victor Knight, 12, for the best constructed car, and to David Coulson, 12, for the best designed car.

CHARGED WITH RAPE

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—One man from Orlia, another from Hedley and a juvenile appeared in police court here Saturday on a charge of rape.

John Clifford Brewer, 23, of Orlia and Lloyd Loomer, 19, of Hedley were formally charged with the rape of a 15-year-old Penticton girl.

The juvenile appeared in court on the same charge. The men were remanded until June 28.

STRIKE VOTE ASKED

ROSSLAND—Rossland civic workers asked Saturday for a government supervised strike vote following rejection by city council of a conciliation board award.

Application for the vote has followed balloting which showed the 18 members of the union to be unanimously in favor of strike action.

Earlier this week, council rejected a unanimous award handed down by a three-man board.

AUSSIE TRAIN CRASHES STATION; 100 INJURED

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—The Sydney-Brisbane Express, its whistle blowing full blast and no brakes working, roared into Terminal Station Sunday and ripped through the steel-and-concrete structure. At least 100 persons were injured, with 56 of them treated at hospitals.

Railway officials said the train's brakes failed on the last mile of its 600-mile journey and the driver could do nothing but keep his whistle blowing.

Shorter Work Week Warning Sounded by Tire Firm Head

Increased productivity is the only way to achieve the growth and prosperity described in the Gordon Commission report, said W. H. Funston, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada, Ltd., during a weekend visit to Victoria. "Any shortening of the work week without a compensating increase in productivity will result in a declining economy instead of the dynamic expanding economy envisaged by the Gordon Commission," he said. Mr. Funston is touring Western Canada visiting the firm's operations and observing general economic conditions.

NEWNESS BUILT IN

TACKED
ON!

That's the secret of Ford's success, because Ford is the car that's new all the way through. Ford's newness isn't just "face-lift" newness. In the new kind of Ford, chassis, engine and body are individually engineered to blend into one beautiful, spacious, rock-solid unit. That's why, when you look below the surface, you find a car that's as new as it looks—right down to the last nut and bolt!

New Wide-Contoured Frame bows out and dips down to give a more stable, safer, riding platform... makes possible a lower, sleeker silhouette.

New Even-Keel Rear Suspension automatically adapts to road and load... helps eliminate "squat" and "dip".

New Swept-Back Ball-Joint Suspension allows front wheels to step "over" the bumps... gives you a much smoother ride.

New Deep-Offset Rear Axle helps make possible Ford's "low look" while permitting generous passenger space.

New Super-Strong Body has heavy roof braces, huskier double-grip safety door locks, more insulation material than any competitive manufacturer's car.

New Comfort-Contoured Seats: rigidly anchored, have advanced-design springing for greater comfort, longer life.

New Giant-Grip Brakes are double-sealed for extra dependability in any weather. Improved pedal angle means easier operation.

New Exclusive Electronic Balancing of each V-8, while operating under its own power, introduces a new standard of smoothness.

New Higher Horsepower Mileage Maker Six is the most modern, thriftiest, top-performing "six" in the industry.

Mixed Reaction To Overhauling Of U.S. Security

Newsman Could Face $10,000 Fine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Proposals for overhauling United States government anti-subversive programs won praise today in some quarters, but there was strong criticism of a recommendation for criminal penalties for publishing "secret" information.

Coming in for praise was a joint Democrat-Republican commission's proposal for a sweeping revision of the Eisenhower administration's loyalty-security program and for sealing American defences against subversion. The commission said its recommendations also are designed to offer "increased safeguards for the rights of individuals".

A target of criticism was the proposed law under which a newspaperman could be fined $10,000 and sent to prison for five years for publishing secret information.

WIRE-TAP EVIDENCE

Some congressmen also assailed a commission proposal to legalize the use of wire-tap evidence in court cases involving national security.

The 12-man commission, set up by Congress, made its recommendations Saturday in an 800-page report to Congress and President Eisenhower.

There is little prospect of any action by Congress in the remaining weeks of the present session.

The administration's controversial loyalty-security program was set up by Eisenhower in 1953 and has been the subject of a number of investigations.

Under commission proposals for revising this program: 1, loyalty cases would be separated from those involving employees regarded as security risks only because of undesirable personal habits; 2, a limited right to confront accusers would be granted, and 3, a new agency would be created in an effort to assure improved administration of the program.

TOO MUCH SECRECY

The commission said dangers to national security arise from over-secrecy which "retards scientific and technological progress."

However, it also called for a bill to make it unlawful for "any person" who obtained "secret" or "top secret" information in atomic or other fields "to communicate any part thereof" to anyone else not authorized to receive such information.

This would apply to reporters or other private citizens, even if they had no intention to harm national security.

The commission's report said that "all loyalty cases are security cases, but the converse is not true."

Blood Department For One Day In City Store

First blood donor clinic ever to be held in a downtown store here will be staged Tuesday at the Hudson's Bay Company from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5.30 p.m.

Arranged primarily for store employees, it will be open to the public. Canadian Red Cross and store officials say it will provide a central location for blood donors from the B.C. Electric, B.C. Telephone, B.C. Forest Products, police, firemen and other groups of regular donors.

Second day of the two-day clinic will be at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, Wednesday. The Red Cross is hoping for a minimum of 700 pints of blood in the two days.

Dr. T. D. Stout, provincial medical director, has announced that Salk vaccine inoculations, even if taken recently, do not prevent persons from giving blood.

PIPER PAID OFF

Musician in Street Stops Posh Concert

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—You know the old saying, "He who pays the piper calls the tune."

The payer called for silence because the piper was breaking up a concert given by the Scottish National Orchestra Friday night.

The orchestra began the overture "The Beautiful Galatea" when in the quieter moments the wail of bagpipes from a street musician could be heard.

Broad smiles creased the faces of the musicians, but conductor Karl Rankl was not amused. He halted the orchestra and stalked off the rostrum.

Someone gave the street musician, Hugh Stewart, 62, £1 for silence. Stewart complied.

Rankl returned to the stage and the orchestra struck up.

U.S. Fliers With Excess Torsos Get Orders to Become Less So

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States Air Force commanders have been ordered to pare down overweight supersonic fliers.

A regulation from the inspector general which became public Saturday said those who are obese are most susceptible to depression sickness.

The inspector general said two cases of death have been reported following explosive decompression at 30,000 feet. Both individuals were riding in jet aircraft as passengers and death occurred in each case within a few hours after the aircraft landed.

WILSON'S SEEK STORIES FROM PAST YEARS!

In connection with the Centenary Year, we are anxious to gather stories concerning W. & J. WILSON in its earlier years. We would be most deeply grateful to our friends and customers who might wish to contribute these stories. We are particularly interested in the colorful incidents or happenings in connection with shopping in this store in past years and the stories of customers who have been served by Wilson's through two or three generations. These stories are required at an early date and will be gratefully received either in writing or by phone call to any of our people. Thank you.

Tanker Truck Blast Rocks Georgia Town

SYLVANIA, Ga. (AP)—A terrible gas explosion ripped through six business firms and one office building in the Sylvania business district Sunday. Damage was estimated at $125,000 but no one was hurt. The explosion was believed to have been caused by gas escaping from a tanker truck. Officials advance the theory that the hot sun blew out a safety valve on the tanker, which was parked at the rear of the gas company, and that the escaping gas exploded.

14 Die in Island Air Crash

WRECKAGE OF PORT HARDY AIR TRAGEDY

Seared remains of Pacific Western Airlines' plane which crashed at Port Hardy Sunday, killing 14 of its 18 occupants, is shown here.

Plane crashed seconds after pilot radioed he did not like "feel" of aircraft and was returning to land. (AP Wirephoto.)

Open Rear Door Lets 4 Survive

PORT HARDY, B.C. (CP)—A Pacific Western Airlines plane, returning to land shortly after taking off Sunday from the busy-but-remote Port Hardy airport, 240 miles north of Victoria, bounced high off the runway and then plunged nose-first into the ground.

'NOSE DIVED'

Survivor Tells Story Of Air Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—A survivor of the Pacific Western Airlines plane crash which took 14 lives said Sunday night the DC-3 went into a nose-dive shortly before it crashed, after having trouble getting off the ground.

Peter Amushko, 27, of Edmonton, was reached by telephone at the home of a doctor where he was treated for minor injuries suffered when the plane crashed at Port Hardy, B.C.

Amushko said the plane "couldn't seem to get any height" after its takeoff. The pilot banked to the left and headed back, then "shot right up in the air, maybe 1,000 feet."

It banked left again "and went into what I would call a nose-dive."

"I could see the ground coming over my shoulder. We hit and everyone was flung over to the left. My head was kind of squashed against something. There was debris all over. I shook my head. The flames started coming. I undid my safety belt and went for the back door."

"I remember thinking: 'If that back door is jammed shut, it will be bad' but it wasn't. It was partly opened by the impact of hitting ground, I suppose."

"When we got out I heard the stewardess saying: 'There's someone still alive in there'."

"The flames were coming fast then. It was pretty hot. I could see someone trying to get down to the door and I tried to get to him, but it was no use. The flames got whoever it was."

The pilot, co-pilot and 12 passengers died as the twin-engined DC-3 burned fiercely. The youthful stewardess and three other passengers, all from the rear of the plane, made their way almost unhurt through a rear door as flames and burning gasoline sprayed the field and consumed all of the aircraft but its tail.

"It came straight down," said Bill Krause, an airport worker who saw the crash. "The controls must have frozen."

BLAME GROUND CREW

Pacific Western, the third largest air service in Canada, with operations from the United States border to the Arctic Circle, later issued a statement implying that negligence may have been the cause of the crash.

Early reports, the company said, indicate the "cause of the accident was the failure of some personnel to remove one of the ground control blocks, which are always placed on the tail assembly of the aircraft. The wooden blocks hold the tail elevators in position and would stop the elevators from working properly if left in position after the plane took off."

Captain was Gerald W. Allen, 37, of Richmond, B.C. His co-pilot was Laurie Roland, 23, of Vancouver, a three-time winner of the British Columbia junior open golf championship and Canadian title in 1951. Both were killed.

Third crew member was Patricia Wilson, 23, of Vancouver, a native of Regina who joined PWA 15 months ago. She survived.

The plane was bound for Vancouver, 190 miles southeast of this northern Vancouver Island community.

"It appeared to be a normal take-off," said airport worker Krause, who watched it from outside his home. "He got into the air and then radioed for permission to land again."

"He said he was having trouble with his elevators. He came down, bounced off the runway and veered into the air again to between 300 or 400 feet."

"The plane suddenly banked to the left and then nosed over. It came straight down."

Another airport worker, Bill Porter, said Capt. Allen was asked by the control tower whether he wanted the crash wagon to stand by.

"He said no, that he was in control," said Porter. "He was, too, at that time."

Others who escaped were John Kimdrat of Moose Jaw, Sask., Salvatore Dardeno, 28, of Vancouver, and Peter Amushko of Edmonton.

The doctor who treated them for the injuries and burns, Dr. W. S. Wilson of Port Hardy, said the four "are all remarkably well and very fortunate."

Besides their position at the rear of the plane, Dr. Wilson said, a contributing factor in their survival was that the rear door was sprung open by the crash impact.

No Early Election Says PM in U.K.

SLY Diefenbaker Dig AT POLITICAL PUNDITS

LONDON (CP)—The upset winner of Canada's June 10 election couldn't resist having his bit of fun. Mischief gleamed in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's eyes today as British reporters at London airport asked him how he accounted for his victory.

"You'd better ask the Canadian correspondents," he replied. "Their prophecies were about as good as any answer I could make."

Bomb Blast Rips Doors 14 Miles Away

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Scientists today fired a nuclear test weapon that was blinding in daylight and so strong it wrenched doors from their hinges 14 miles away at the control point.

The device, most powerful of the summer test series and the first to be touched off in daylight, was suspended 700 feet above the desert floor from a big plastic balloon.

In Las Vegas, about 75 miles away, one observer said the atomic cloud had a "double mushroom effect."

The atomic energy commission said "there was little radioactivity in the stem, which will in any case settle back on the site."

The testers reported the blast was felt "very sharply" at the control point. Interior doors at the control-point building were torn from their hinges and interior walls were cracked at one entrance.

Exact size of the blast was not disclosed, but the atomic energy commission had said earlier that it would be above 20 kilotons, or more powerful than the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Among the active participants in today's shot were 835 pigs. Some were covered with material used in military clothing, to be examined to determine how it had been affected by radiation.

Full Revision Asked On Evacuation Plan

A complete revision of Greater Victoria evacuation plans will be recommended to the next meeting of Greater Victoria Civil Defence Board.

Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, recently returned from a CD course at Annapolis, Ontario, said today the existing plan is "obsolete."

The plan was outlined in detail in a 12-page handbook last year. A total of 35,000 copies were distributed to householders in this area. Cost was $2,235.

"The whole of the Saanich peninsula should be evacuated in event of impending attack," Ald. Edgelow stated.

The plan issued last year calls for evacuation of a large part of the district to the Sidney area.

UP-ISLAND

He said the best escape method now would be via the Island Highway with all traffic in three lanes going north. Southbound traffic would be restricted.

This would no doubt create traffic slow-ups and all might not expect to escape, he stated, but "at least a few thousand would be saved."

TV Swap Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally proposed to Russia today a "regular exchange of uncensored radio and television broadcasts."

MOTHER BURNED TOT WITH CIGARET BUTT

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Martha Gray, 24, mother of four children, was charged Saturday with cruelty after, police said, she beat her three-month-old son and burned him with cigarettes to stop his crying.

The baby, Carl, was still in critical condition at a hospital, with 17 fractures and numerous body burns.

Police quoted Mrs. Gray as saying she beat the baby with her doubled fist and burned him with cigarettes to quiet him.

"I love my baby but I just can't stand it when he cries," she said when she got up at night to give Carl his bottle, she would light a cigaret and burn him.

Korea 'War Alert' As Red Jets Fly

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean government tonight declared a "war alert" after flights of 19 Communist jet planes were reported to have flown south of the military armistice line.

In Korea "war alert" is one degree from martial law.

The Defence Ministry reported that an estimated 2,000 North Koreans staged demonstrations near the Panmunjom neutral zone frontier with huge banners saying "withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea" and "peaceful reunification of Korea."

The ministry said 19 MIG jet fighters flew south of the demilitarized line near Kumha, central Korea, this morning in violation of the armistice agreement.

No hostile action was taken by the planes.

The MIGs came in three waves, the statement said.

The United Nations command last week accused the Communists in North Korea of "gross and repeated" violations of the Korean armistice, and decided to replace outmoded weapons in South Korea because the North Koreans and Chinese had already done so.

3 Boys Admit Murder —Father of 1, Victim

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three boys confessed Sunday the murder of the father of one of them.

Police identified the son of a man who died in the Pennsylvania electric chair a little over two years ago as the member of the trio who pumped a slug from a .30-30 rifle into the chest of 35-year-old Martin Daniels as he sat on the stoop of his south Philadelphia home Saturday night.

Police said the boys signed a statement declaring that the murder was planned for revenge by Daniels' 16-year-old son, Martin Jr., after a violent quarrel Friday night.

In the statement, the boys said the Daniels youth turned over the death weapon to 14-year-old Curtis Edwards as they and Albert Stolla, 15, lay in ambush in a cemetery across the street from the Daniels home.

Edwards' father, Grover Cleveland Edwards, was executed April 25, 1955, for the murder of a retired Philadelphia baker.

Human Error Under Probe

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A press report that the crash of the Pacific Western Airlines DC-3 on Sunday was due to tail blocks being inadvertently left in place was being checked today by the department of transport's air division to ascertain if it is accurate.

In September, 1946, at Estevan, Sask., a RCAF transport crashed killing 21. The crash at that time, investigations showed, was due to the tail blocks being left in place, preventing the aircraft from gaining altitude.

Following that Estevan air force crash—which was investigated by the RCAF—the transport department issued regulations which required that the tail blocks had to have streamers and huge weights on them so that ground personnel could never overlook them before an aircraft took off.

This was the Ottawa reaction when Canada was consulted by the United Nations command in South Korea before the UN notified the Chinese and North Korean Communists last week that modern weapons will be sent to South Korea to counter an arms buildup in North Korea.

Second Worst Crash To Occur on Island

Crash of a Pacific Western Airlines aircraft at Port Hardy Sunday, with the loss of 14 lives, was the second worst ever to occur on Vancouver Island.

The worst was Oct. 17, 1951, when a Canco amphibian, operated by Queen Charlotte Airways, crashed into Mount Benson behind Nanaimo, killing 20 passengers and the crew of three. None escaped.

The plane was en route from Kemano to Vancouver, and most of the passengers were workers employed at the huge Kitimat development of the Aluminum Company of Canada. It was making a routine diversion before landing in Vancouver, and crashed into the mountain at the 1,500-foot level. The accident occurred at about 9 p.m. and the plane burst into flames immediately.

Is Margaret 'Cradle-Snatching'? Express Asks as Escort Younger

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Express has raised the question whether Princess Margaret is cradle-snatching because her new escort is nearly four years her junior.

It is the second piece of veiled criticism in as many days by one of Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers about Princess Margaret's going with Lord Patrick Beresford. A Sunday Express columnist hinted that the princess had stolen the handsome guardsman from Joanna Smith-Bingham, a 21-year-old.

The Queen's sister and the young nobleman have been constant companions in recent weeks. She will be 27 in August; he is 23.

Express writer Anne Edwards says the age discrepancy is causing a good deal of talk. Miss Edwards deplores this, asking: "Why should everyone be so horrified at the idea that a 27-year-old girl might marry a 23-year-old boy?"

"Yet the fact is that whenever a girl goes around with a man much younger than herself, people assume she is making the best of what is available, settling for something rather than nothing, looking back because her field has narrowed."

The princess watched Lord Patrick play polo at Windsor Great Park Sunday. Then they drove off together in his car to Windsor Castle, where he was a weekend guest.

PM to Pledge Commonwealth Loyalty, Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, has gone to London to assure his Commonwealth partners of his government's desire to stand fast with them and, perhaps, to drum up trade.

The 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer who became prime minister last Friday left Ottawa for London on the RCAF's luxury C-54 transport aircraft for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Wednesday.

Before taking off Sunday with his official delegation, including Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, new defence minister, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Commonwealth has opportunities equal to any in the past to assure and maintain freedom on the RCAF's luxury C-54 transport aircraft for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Wednesday.

Friendship and Harmony With World

It was Canada's desire to stand united with the Commonwealth in good and bad times and in friendship and harmony with all the world, especially the United States.

At Uplands airport Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated an election campaign promise to initiate a Commonwealth trade and economic conference to find ways of achieving a maximum of intra-Commonwealth trade.

Canada, faced with stocks of 75,000,000 bushels of wheat has lost some of its importance as a supplier to Britain and Mr. Diefenbaker may seek to regain it.

In his broadcast address, Mr. Diefenbaker pledged himself to the service of Canadians in the belief "that the preservation of human dignity and the extension of human betterment are the foundation and keystone of good government."

He referred to Canada's role as a link between Britain and the U.S. and indicated his Progressive Conservative government is prepared to continue in that role.

"I believe that the unity of these nations must be preserved in the years ahead in a spirit of infinite forbearance and compassion," he said.

His party attending the London conference, besides Mrs. Diefenbaker and Mrs. Pearkes, includes R. B. Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council, and Jules Léger, undersecretary of state for external affairs, and A. F. W. Plumptre, assistant deputy finance minister. Mr. Diefenbaker has retained for himself, at least for the time being, the post of external affairs minister.

John D. Appoints Acting Ministers

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of five acting ministers to fill vacant portfolios in the new Progressive Conservative federal government was announced Saturday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

All the acting ministers were among those sworn in Friday for permanent cabinet posts.

The temporarily vacant portfolios will be handled as follows: Works Minister Howard Green will be acting minister of defence production and of health and welfare.

The Vancouver Quadra member of the House of Commons, it was announced Friday, also will be acting prime minister during Mr. Diefenbaker's two-week stay in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Solicitor-General Leon Balcer of Trois-Rivières, Que., will be acting minister of mines and technical surveys.

HUNGER BEAT HIM

Mau Mau Real Mole For 2½ Years

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—A Mau Mau terrorist has surrendered here after living in a hole in the ground for two and one-half years.

Kamau Gita, 32, had lived in darkness for so long that his skin had turned khaki colored. District officer G. R. Goldworthy said the man had been kept alive by seven people who provided food and bedding.

When police discovered and stopped the source of Gita's food supplies, the man surrendered, long-haired and in rags.

Ack-Ack Units In Training At Albert Head

Anti-aircraft firing from Albert Head started over the weekend and will continue until July 7 by mainland ack-ack militia units in summer camp here.

Members of 65 Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment (Irish Fusiliers), Vancouver, arrived here last week and will train until Saturday when they will be replaced by medium ack-ack units.

Vancouver's 43 Medium Anti-Aircraft Battery and the 24 MAA Battery, Trail, will camp at Albert Head from June 29 to July 7.

Mariners are warned of the seaward danger area between Albert Head, Race Rocks and Trial Island, which extends to an altitude of 25,000 feet.

Firing will take place both at night and in daylight. Meanwhile, on Friday, about 200 men of Victoria militia units will leave for summer training at Camp Wainwright.

Men of 5 Medium Battery, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), 5 Area Signals Squadron, "B" Platoon 156 Transport Company, 25 Medical Company, 40 Technical Squadron and headquarters personnel of 25 Militia Group will take part.

They fly to Vancouver where all but the latter group, led by commanding officer, Brig. John Adam, will entrain for Wainwright. The Group will fly all the way.

Douglas Harkness, new northern affairs minister, will be acting minister of agriculture until an appointment is made by Mr. Diefenbaker shortly after his July 6 return from London.

Revenue Minister Nowlan will be acting defence minister while the new appointee, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, is in London with Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker, meeting reporters after the second Conservative cabinet meeting since the new administration took office Friday, also said:

1. He won't be announcing the names of parliamentary assistants to cabinet ministers until some time after his return from London.

2. He has nothing to say for the moment about the question of appointing a president of the privy council, a nominal portfolio customarily held by the prime minister.

3. He would think the appointment of an acting prime minister to function in his absence from Ottawa would be an "ad hoc" proposition, indicating that Mr. Green is not a permanent choice for this job.

When police discovered and stopped the source of Gita's food supplies, the man surrendered, long-haired and in rags.

PEARKES ORDERS ARMY PENSION SUSPENDED—IT WAS AUTOMATIC

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—One of the first steps taken by Maj.-Gen. Pearkes as minister of national defence, was to issue instructions that his long-term army service pension be suspended effective from the date he was sworn in as minister, on June 21.

While the minister issued this instruction as one of his first acts in office, it was really not necessary.

Under the provisions of the pension its suspension would have been automatic as soon as Gen. Pearkes took cabinet office.

The Punching Bag

"LOOK at that old punching bag," you said?

My dear, you're cracked. That, for all its leathery look, is no punching bag. That's a woman columnist!

Mind you, I'll admit that she performs the function of a punching bag for her readers. But I don't believe in calling a spade a spade.

No, they don't punch her all the time. They seem to do it more in bouts. And some of them are very gentle. Their punches are scarcely more than taps. Tiny pushes in the right direction!

But now and again, of course, she gets a little breathless and begins to reel a bit. That's why she's developed a habit of ducking suddenly to escape a blow from an unexpected quarter.

For they've hit her in some very funny places, I can tell you.

When, in a mood of flippant gaiety, she wrote about "this curious and unnatural institution we call marriage" they tapped her more in sorrow than in anger. They sent her pamphlets on how to be a womanly woman and like it. They wrote her more or less in the vein of "Submit, my dear. It is the Lord's will." And, as this PB has been "submitting" for more than 20 years and is really rather fond of what she yanked out of the matrimonial grab bag, it left her just a little dizzy.

When she wrote that she preferred simple funerals, she was told she was crucifying the undertakers.

When she was concerned about the Maltheusian theory, she was corrected by a practical reader who said that we need never worry about the world's population outstripping the world's food supply since every human being produces enough manure to feed himself. (And this fascinating thought still occurs to her in nightmares!)

When she writes that in this shrinking world we should try to study the tenets of non-Christian faiths so that we can better understand the people who adhere to them, she knows exactly the direction from which she may expect a determined but very gentle blow.

If she uses the word "alright" she knows that somewhere, among the great unassigned, there's a reader who longs to administer a quick academic rap. (There are two forms, I'm certain. "All right" and "alright." They're not interchangeable. They mean quite different things. And I don't give a darn what the grammars say!)

When she carelessly used the word "England" instead of "Britain" she was given a polite, corrective knock by someone who was better informed on British history. (After what date should you start using "Britain" instead of "England"? No, look it up yourself. I'm not telling!)

When, once, she made a definite error in connection with Canadian history, no corrective blow came at all, although she was shivering in her shoes, and practically weeping on her husband's shoulder. (Queer, wasn't it? Don't Canadians care about their history?)

But, gosh, it's fun. I do enjoy it. It keeps me on my toes.

So, please, those of you who recognize yourselves, take it in good part. Because this old bag is just in the mood for a few teasing punches back.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Cartooning Canada

LONDON—Here and there, ... CANADA is well to the fore in a recent issue of Punch, with three of its 15 cartoons devoted to the Dominion. One shows a member of the visiting contingent of Mounties arriving at a horse show with a burglar and his loot roped to the back of his horse.

Another gives Punch's idea of the type of poster Russia would bring out to deter people from going to Canada—a plutocrat sinks his teeth into a succulent steak while a half-starved waiter looks on enviously.

The third depicts a street salesman playing the queues outside London's Canada Immigration Office with snow shoes and geiger counters.

SOMETHING NEW for the girls here (but perhaps no novelty to you) is the "three-way bag." This handbag comes in a variety of colors. The one I saw was in white, red and black.

How the trick works is that it is a white bag with a folder encasing it that is red on one side and black on the other. This folder can be attached to the bag with clips or left at home, which means that you have a choice of three bags in one—white grosgrain, red velvet or black grosgrain. Price $3.50 and selling like hotcakes.

THOSE OF YOU who were amused by Stephen Potter's books on "gamesmanship" (who wasn't?) will be interested to learn that he has signed a contract with Carl Foreman, who made High Noon, to write, direct and act in a series of films on the art of being a gamesman. They'll be on the lines of the famous Robert Benchley How To—shorts that enlivened many a movie program in prewar days.

ADD TO THE LIST of important publications likely to fold up: the national Sunday Reynolds News. A spokesman for the Co-operative movement, which is behind the paper, says it will have to cease publication if it doesn't get more support. Which prompts me to draw to the attention of any Canadian newspaperman contemplating a move here to work that there is at present a cool wind blowing through Fleet Street.

Not feeling the TV-pinch, however, is the Sunday Times, which is booming to the extent of running regular 28-page issues. This doesn't please all its readers, though, for one of them wrote in to complain of "the deluge of print" and to plead for the return to 12-page papers.

So conditioned have the English become to their 15 years of newspaper shortage that the 28-pager that would make a Canadian feel he was being gyped makes an Englishman feel over-burdened with reading matter.

BUSY ALEC GUINNESS, just finishing the film comedy Barnacle Bill, goes straight into the movie version of Daphne Du Maurier's latest best-seller, The Scapegoat, and then stars in two films from famous Evelyn Waugh books—Scoop and The Loved One.

SYNOPSIS—Pressures are rising over B.C. as Sunday's storm moves into Alberta. Weather across the province is expected to be mostly sunny today with only a few lingering showers over the northern and eastern interior mountains. Another Pacific storm is developing offshore and is expected to reach the northern B.C. coast tonight and spread showers over the rest of B.C. later on Tuesday.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE
9 A.M. FORECASTS

Valid until midnight Tuesday

Victoria: Mostly sunny today and Tuesday morning clouding over Tuesday afternoon. Showers Tuesday evening. Little change in temperature. Winds westerly 15 backing to south-easterly 15 late Tuesday afternoon. Low tonight and high Tuesday 52 and 65.

Vancouver - Georgia Strait: Mostly sunny today and Tues.

Safety Group To Organize Here Tonight

A meeting to organize a Victoria branch of the B.C. Safety Council will be held at 8 tonight in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building. It was announced by George McWilliam, temporary chairman of the branch.

Representatives of industry, labor, police, municipal councils, school boards and other organizations have been invited.

Mr. McWilliam said a safety council is necessary to curb the steadily increasing number of accidents in the area.

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Arab infiltrator was killed Sunday in a Negre Desert clash between an Israeli Army patrol and infiltrators. A government announcement said the Israelis suffered no losses.

Portable Cold Frame Big Help

For the benefit of those gardeners who missed the summer show last week at the Crystal Garden, we would like to mention a few of the highlights as they appeared to us on the spot.

The exhibit of white turnips looked good enough to eat raw. The variety was Snowball. The secret of success with these is, of course, the speed with which they are grown. In this area it even pays to put a portable cold frame over the rows for the first few weeks.

Broad beans, early potatoes and peas were also shown. A portable cold frame is handy to raise all these for early crops in the cooler local areas.

Hilda

Roses dominated the flower sections, the quality being excellent despite the gloomy predictions of "all the best blooms are over."

The exhibitor of "the best rose in the show" was oddly enough not the winner of the greatest number of silver cups, which proves that the gardener with a couple of good rose bushes has an equal chance with the owner of 50 or 100.

The sweet peas looked very fine, and had plenty of perfume.

This could be extended to the more unusual material used in the floral arrangements. A slip of paper attached to the black table covering by the exhibitor with adhesive would be sufficient.

1 Dead, 10 Hurt In Duncan Crash

Gory, Tragic Prelude
To Rock 'n' Roll Dance

A three-car crash, gory and tragic prelude to a rock 'n' roll dance in Duncan Saturday at 9.25 p.m., killed one youth and sent eight others to hospital.

Dead is Kenneth Meyer, 16, Cowichan High School student and driver of one of the cars involved.

Injured are: Ralph Carson, 14, brought to Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria Sunday night for special treatment, and described today as in "fair" condition; Douglas Mackie, 19; Carol Whittaker, 15, and two other youngsters as yet not identified.

RCMP have not been able to reconstruct the crash scene, but they suggested one of the cars passed a car owned by Melvin Thomas, an Indian, and driven by Roy Miller, also an Indian.

It was the overtaking car that collided head-on with an oncoming car, and finally the Thomas car also smashed into one of the wrecked cars.

Occupants of the Thomas car were not seriously injured. The accident occurred on Gibbins Road, about one and one-half miles west of its intersection with the Old Island Highway at Queen Margaret's School.

Occupants of the Thomas car were not seriously injured. The accident occurred on Gibbins Road, about one and one-half miles west of its intersection with the Old Island Highway at Queen Margaret's School.

It seemed that the second car moved out to pass the first one. The third, on following behind, smashed into it and then the two of them hit the one in front. It shot right across the road and smashed into some tree stumps.

"Bodies were thrown all over the road, and I think young

Esquimalt Makes Full Payment On Sweeper Bill

Threat of legal action to collect an overdue bill for street cleaner services has brought full payment by Esquimalt Council, it was learned today.

Coun. J. E. Carey said an emergency meeting of council held Thursday approved payment of $956 to Esquimalt Service Station. Payment had been delayed earlier on grounds the bill was exorbitant.

The street cleaner matter caused much debate at council this spring. Coun. George Argyle, a director of the firm which owned the sweeper, was asked by Coun. Carey to resign.

PM Confirms Cassiar Road Cost Split

Confirmation of an offer made last February by the Liberal government to finance half the cost of the Cassiar, Stewart road in northwestern B.C. was given Saturday by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker on behalf of the new Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said at a press conference in Ottawa the government was prepared to grant up to $1,500,000 each year for four years. This would amount to half the $12,000,000 estimated cost of the road.

The announcement of federal participation in the road, which has been a centre of controversy in the province over the last two years, was made by then fisheries minister James Sinclair and later confirmed in the Commons by Resources Minister Jean Lesage.

There has been no actual construction on the road since it was the subject of a legislative committee inquiry in 1956.

It was charged at that time that patronage and waste of public funds was involved in construction of the road, which was classified as a mining assistance road.

An official of the provincial mines department said today there is little chance of construction going ahead this summer.

379 Merchants Against Change In Store Hours

Retail Merchants' Association of Canada will go to city council Thursday with a list of 379 local merchants who want store hours to remain as they are.

The group polled 522 store-owners last year after council endorsed a request of the Six-Day Shopping Week Committee, representing 86 stores, for longer shopping hours.

K OF C FISHING DERBY CATCH

Boy Angler at Breakwater Hooks Doctor's Stolen Bag

Eight-year-old Sean McDonald, 2251 Kinross, bagged a catch on his first fishing derby Saturday, but got no prize.

Out on the Breakwater with a new rod for Knights of Columbus fishing derby, Sean hooked a valuable medical bag, complete with instruments, which had been stolen from a visiting Seattle doctor's car last Tuesday night.

He yanked it in and took it home to show his mother, Mrs. Neilson-McDonald, who sent him and the bag to city police.

One of Four Original Gyros Here Tuesday

A friendship club started in 1912 by four college chums has grown into what is now known across Canada and the United States as the Gyro International.

One of those four chums—Ed Kagey of Cleveland, Ohio—will be in Victoria this week to witness the extraordinary growth of this pioneer effort.

He will see nearly 1,000 members, wives and guests assembled at the first international Gyro convention to be held here since 1941.

"Ed Kagey and his three chums formed their Gyro group with the idea of perpetuating their friendship for life," Bart Carson, president of Victoria Gyro Club, which is host for the convention, said today.

"They had no idea this little group would grow into a great international friendship club consisting of thousands of Canadians and Americans of all ages from 21 to 71."

On Wednesday all delegates will move to Sooke Flats where the Gyros will hold their own "All Sooke Day" sponsored by Island clubs.

STARTS TUESDAY
An advance guard of executives met in the Empress Hotel today. General registration begins Tuesday.

This afternoon the executives, led by international president Bob Brimacombe of Vancouver, visited the Gyro's community park development at Cadboro Bay, where $25,000 has already been spent on a bath house and toilet facilities for parents and children.

Racers Will Defy Saanich Ban On Big Elk Lake Regatta July 1

Speedboat races will be held on Elk Lake July 1 despite a ban by Saanich Council.

At a meeting Sunday, Victoria Inboard and Outboard Association decided to go ahead with the regatta, which it says will be the largest power boat race meet in western Canada this year.

A letter has been sent to Saanich council reporting that the club expects up to 80 entries, racing will be under auspices of the Canadian Boating Federation, stringent safety regulations will be applied, and liability insurance will be carried.

Club officials said today they have tried for 20 years to have racing for one day each year on Elk Lake, but that various councils have passed the problem back and forth without ever have made a decision.

"In the meantime our members obeyed the club rule that no one should use Elk Lake until we gained permission," Brock Robertson, club publicity chairman, said today. "Now, 20 years later, we find it is possible to use our own lake without asking."

He said a careful search had been made of by-laws governing use of motorboats on the lake, and that nothing specifically bars such action. In addition, he said, the lake is provincial water, and neither the city nor Saanich have the right to allow or disallow a race.

The B.C. game department has approved the race meet, he said.

Early in the spring the club started working toward use of the lake for a one-day race meet, and early this month the public works committee of the city council recommended permission be granted, subject to approval by city council and the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

The city gave its approval, depending on an affirmative stand by Saanich, but Saanich council last week upheld a recommendation from the beaches and parks committee that the races be disallowed.

"The information we have is that there is nothing to stop us," Mr. Robertson said.

The race meet, which will feature both inboard and outboard racers, hopes to draw entries from all Vancouver Island points and Vancouver, Kelowna, Vernon, and Seattle as well.

$3,000 COST
It will cost the club about $3,000 in expense and prize money, he said, but the return is great since each boat's crew will spend about $100 in the city and district for meals and accommodation.

"For the outboards, this regatta will be the northwest regional championship," Mr. Robertson said. "Only one club in the northwest can stage the regatta, and it is a must for racers planning to work up to the divisional, then national championships. We fought hard to get it, and feel it is the highest honor the club could hold."

The club has wanted Elk Lake for the meet, largest ever held on Vancouver Island, for the following reasons: It is fresh water, and in case of upsets, damage to engines is minimized; viewing for spectators is excellent, and there is plenty of parking space; it is close to town, the water is warm, launching facilities are good, and there is little chance of being "blown out."

The course will be roughly parallel to the highway, and beaches and swimming will not be affected. Patrol boats will be on guard at all times.

PARTY-BENT YOUTHS MAKE BEER GRABS

Party-bent Victoria youths have a new system for getting refreshments—they take beer from homeward-bound citizens after pub-closing time.

Victor Marsh, 913 Green, told police he was walking north on North Park east of Blanshard Saturday night when five youths about 20 years old jumped from an old-model car and grabbed the case of beer he was carrying.

The same thing had happened a few minutes before on Government near View as Mrs. George Foster, 110 Dallas, walked away from a nearby hotel. They also tried to relieve her of her purse.

First Leader Of Store Clerks Dies Here at 86

James Talbot, the first president of the Retail Clerks' Union which he helped to organize in 1911, died at the Gorge Road Nursing Home Friday. He was 86.

A well-known Victoria grocer, Mr. Talbot was the leader of a campaign some 35 years ago which won a minimum wage for retail clerks.

He also was largely responsible for bringing about Wednesday afternoon closing for shops.

Born in Lancashire, England, Mr. Talbot came to Victoria in 1904 and throughout his life worked to improve the lot of retail clerks in B.C.

Search Continues

Search for 35-year-old brush salesman Arthur Yurkowski, 2624 Quadra, missing one week today, continues without leads, police report.

The man failed to return from his sales route Monday evening and was reported missing early Tuesday by his wife, mother of a 19 months old son.

A small boy came close to burning down Sir James Douglas School Sunday afternoon at 4.22.

Investigating smoke in the building, police and firemen found a small boy had crawled under the auditorium floor and set fire to some papers in the confined space.

The lad was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Mervin H. Leadley, 229 Government, was fined $15 in Oak Bay police court Friday for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Higher salaries for provincial sheriffs and bailiffs were passed today by the cabinet.

In Victoria the sheriff's new monthly rate will be a minimum of $400 and maximum of $480, depending on length of service.

The deputy sheriff will receive from $327 to $387 and bailiffs from $250 to $339.

MONTE ROBERTS

Recently several people have complimented me on the good behaviour of the livestock who live at our house.

These people tell me I must certainly have a way with the animals, as the livestock obeys my every command.

They are amazed, they say, to note even the small female-type cat obeys me, let alone the large female-type dog.

Well, I am flattered by this praise. But there is nothing to it, really, when you learn the simple secret.

The reason the large dog and the small cat both obey me implicitly is, I outthink them.

For instance, the large dog and I are playing the stick game. "Run after it," I say. "Pick it up. Bring it here ... take it away ... jump up with it ... drop it."

And the large dog goes through the routine perfectly. Now, take the small cat and the matter of food. When food is being readied for small cat, I say "wait," and then I say "okay," and she eats.

By this time, you are no doubt wondering what secret power it is I have over cats and dogs.

As I said before, there is nothing to it. The way to become a wonder with animals is, figure out what the animal is going to do, then tell it to do it just before it does it.

If you find this a little difficult at first, there is another sure fire method of earning a reputation as an animal trainer.

Develop a command in some secret language of your own. Say the command is "Snriff."

You can, of course, say "Snriff," in varying tones. Then, every time you notice your animal about to do something, say "Snriff," and then after it does it, say "Good Dog" as if that's exactly what you wanted the animal to do.

(Unless the animal happens to be a cat, in which case you say "Good Cat" and as above.)

I am thinking seriously of expanding my theories of animal training from the field of dogs and cats to tigers and lions.

I will let you know how I make out.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The RCAF reports seaward and anti-aircraft firing will be carried out in the vicinity of Albert Head, on the following days:

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 3.30 p.m.; July 3 and 4, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.; July 5, 10 a.m. to 1.30 p.m.

The ocean-travelling tanker World Glory is at Yarrow's Ltd. for quadrennial inspection and necessary repairs.

Work, including annual "scrape and paint" will take about six days unless major repairs develop.

King Bros. Ltd. is Victoria agent.

About 150 families and 75 senior citizens were aided on Saturday as Victoria donated generously to the free food stall.

Among the major donations were 75 to 80 pounds of salmon and cod from the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association.

An American family in Victoria for a holiday heard about the operation of the stall and gave large box of groceries.

Borrowing of an additional $10,000,000 by the Pacific Great Eastern Railroad was approved by the cabinet today.

It was disclosed also that Canadian Bank of Commerce has agreed to take up previously announced loans by the PGE totaling close to $21,000,000, at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Smart Play Clothes
To Suit Small Girl

By PENNY SAVER

Little girls' play clothes are just as smart as their elder sisters' these days. I found a series of separates in satinated cotton that would make any little girl look like a fashion plate on the beach or in the playground.

In the smaller group, size 2 to 6X, there are pedal pushers in a solid color and matching sleeveless tops. On the tops there is a yoke of striped fabric in toning colors with a cute little collar that stands up or turns down, and matching striped buttons trim the pockets of the pedal pushers.

They come in bright blue, orange-tan, or beige. Pedal pushers are $2.98 and tops $1.98. For a girl in the 7 to 14 size group, the tops are $2.98 and pedal pushers the same. There are also matching shorts at $2.98 and very chic slim Jim slacks at $3.98.

I especially liked the ribbed waistbands of the tops — an active youngster can't be bothered to tuck her shirt-tails in all the time, and the ribbed waist keeps her looking neat around the middle.

NO IRONING

No-iron cotton is certainly the ideal material for summer nighties and pyjamas. Most people find that cotton is cooler than the synthetics, but no one wants to spend any extra time ironing in the warm weather.

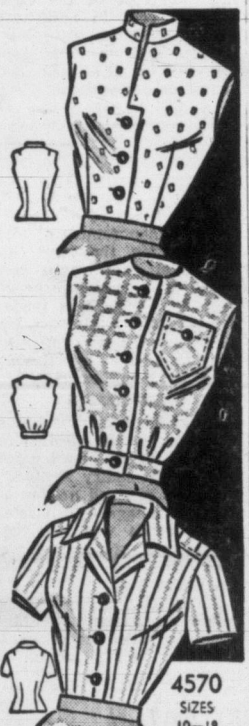

I've found knee-length nighties in the no-iron cotton (just let it drip dry), white with tiny pink or mauve flowers sprinkled over them. Pink or mauve bias trims the low square necklines and outlines the armholes (they're sleeveless).

Price is just $2.98.

For the girl who likes really tailored pyjamas rather than frills and ribbons, there are some consisting of trim top with small collar and short sleeves and neatly cuffed shorts, in pink or blue and white striped no-iron cotton batiste, a very fine and cool fabric.

These are $4.98.

Phone me at 2-3131 if you would like to know where I found any of the items I've mentioned.

Don't 'Back-Seat Drive'
Family Vacation Plans

It seems to me that there is one thing women should watch, her husband but it is she who is mainly responsible for this part of life.

She usually plans the interior decoration of the home, selects the children's clothes and often shops for her husband. Then there are myriad details and minor crises to which she falls heir simply because her husband is away at work all day long.

So, if you have the habit of backseat driving, in a car or elsewhere, give it a thought.

Perhaps the fact that they cannot backseat drive is one reason many women dislike airplane travel. They can't very well say, "Watch out for that cloud!" or, "Are you sure you have enough gasoline?" or, "How long since you have had the landing gear tested?"

I think many vacations are ruined because the woman cannot stop backseat driving on all the plans. What could be more heavenly than to relax and let the man in your life plan the trip, make the reservations, decide which route is best, order dinner for you and give you his shoulder to lean on?

Of course, there are men you cannot rely on in such matters without finding yourself with no place to sleep, only terrible places in which to eat and out of gas, 50 miles from the nearest filling station. Even in such cases I think the problem is mainly one of habit.

The man in question has become accustomed to having his wife plan and manage and has therefore lost his initiative. When he does exert it his wife is in there coaching.

Why not ask your husband to plan the details of your trip this year? I'll bet he would enjoy planning a wonderful time for you. For your part—no backseat driving! Imagine that you are in an airplane, 18,000 feet up. You probably will feel like you are!

HAIR COLORING HERE TO STAY
DESPITE 'TONSorial TROGS'

LONDON (CP)—British men who don't like women to tint their hair were described as "tonsorial troglodytes" by J. G. Laurie, president of the Hairdressing Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association.

"One meets men who, in this supposedly enlightened age, in which fashion has become available to all women whatever their status in life, believe that tinted hair is in some way the first step on the road to immorality."

"It is time that we exposed these tonsorial troglodytes—for that is what they are. Hair coloring has now come to stay."

The Oxford dictionary defines troglodyte as a cave-dweller or hermit.

On Etiquette

A compromise for an over-sight:

When my orphaned nephew and his fiancée picked up their wedding invitations, reception cards and announcements, they realized that they failed to tell the printer the time, place and day on the reception cards, although there is an RSVP in the corner. Instead of rushing a re-order, which would be expensive and cause delay, they wonder if it would be proper to write the information on each card. Uppermost in their minds is to use proper etiquette, so they will follow your advice.

Louise Davis answers:

Let's not think in terms of proper etiquette in this case. Let's compromise because of an emergency. It shouldn't be too expensive to purchase plain cards for the reception invitations and write neatly on each: (top line) Reception. (second line) from four until half past six (third line) the place. In the lower left hand corner should be the RSVP (or please reply) and underneath it the bride's address. If the reception includes a dinner, then write "reception and dinner" on the top line. It isn't necessary to include the date, for it would be assumed that the reception will be held the same day of the wedding. The situation and advice aren't "according to Hoyle," but, under the circumstances, there is nothing objectionable about it, and it hasn't gone too far astray to cause severe criticism. There is no time to scrap everything and start all over.

DVA Patients Enjoy Party

Women's Auxiliary members presented gifts and cards to seven patients at the Veterans' Hospital at the monthly birthday party in the pavilion lounge.

Celebrating birthdays were George Keefer, 92; William Leyman, 86; Arthur Gait, 85; William Trail, 82; Charlie Henderson, 79; John Keith, 78 and William Keefer, 75. Al Smith, also celebrating a birthday, was a special guest.

Mrs. F. D. Gardner played the piano for a musical program directed by George Barton and Charlie Wilkins, with Mrs. M. Christenson assisting. Contests were also enjoyed.

Each honor guest's name and age were on the huge iced birthday cake made by W. H. Kilbey. Tea and cake were served.

WITH CIGARET BUTT

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Martha Gray, 24, mother of four children, was charged Saturday with cruelty after, police said, she beat her three-month-old son and burned him with cigarettes to stop his crying.

The baby, Carl, was still in critical condition at a hospital, with 17 fractures and numerous body burns.

Police quoted Mrs. Gray as saying she beat the baby with her doubled fist and burned him with cigarettes to quiet him.

"I love my baby but I just can't stand it when he cries," she said when she got up at night to give Carl his bottle, she would light a cigarette and burn him.

IBC Dissolution
Ordered by Judge

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today ordered the dissolution of both the International Boxing Club in New York and Illinois and directed James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz to get rid of all stock in Madison Garden within five years.

Norris and Wirtz, presidents of the IBC Corporation, were ordered to resign as officers and directors of the garden within 30 days after July 1.

Bauer Cleared

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York County grand jury today cleared Hank Bauer, Yankee baseball star, of a felonious assault charge brought against him by a night club patron.

No Sabotage

METZ, France (AP)—A spokesman for RCAF headquarters here said tonight he knew nothing of any investigation of sabotage as a possible cause of recent jet plane crashes at Zweibrücken, West Germany.

$21,000 Switched

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto, Montreal and Canadian National Railways police are investigating the disappearance of a bag containing $21,000 from a shipment to Montreal last week.

The money was reported missing Thursday. In place of the money, the bag contained bundles of newspapers clipped to the size of bills and weighing about the same.

WRECKAGE OF PORT HARDY AIR TRAGEDY

Bomb Blast
Rips Doors
14 Miles Away

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Scientists today fired a nuclear test weapon that was blinding in daylight and so strong it wrenched doors from their hinges 14 miles away at the control point.

The device, most powerful of the summer test series and the first to be touched off in daylight, was suspended 700 feet above the desert floor from a big plastic balloon.

In Las Vegas, about 75 miles away, one observer said the atomic cloud had a "double mushroom effect."

The atomic energy commission said "there was little radioactivity in the stem, which will in any case settle back on the site."

The test reported the blast was felt "very sharply" at the control point. Interior doors at the entrance ways of the control point building were torn from their hinges and interior walls were cracked at one entrance.

Exact size of the blast was not disclosed, but the atomic energy commission had said earlier that it would be above 20 kilotons, or more powerful than the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

Among the active participants in today's shot were 835 pigs. Some were covered with material used in military clothing, to be examined to determine how it had been affected by radiation.

No Early Election
Says PM in U.K.SLY DIFENBAKER DIG
AT POLITICAL PUNDITS

LONDON (CP)—The upset winner of Canada's June 10 election couldn't resist having his bit of fun. Mischief gleamed in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's eyes today as British reporters at London airport asked him how he accounted for his victory.

"You'd better ask the Canadian correspondents," he replied. "Their prophecies were about as good as any answer I could make."

Korea 'War Alert'
As Red Jets Fly

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean government tonight declared a "war alert" after flights of 19 Communist jet planes were reported to have flown south of the military armistice line.

In Korea "war alert" is one degree from martial law. The Defence Ministry reported that an estimated 2,000 North Koreans staged demonstrations near the Panmunjom neutral zone frontier with huge banners saying "withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea" and "peaceful reunification of Korea."

The ministry said 19 MIG jet fighters flew south of the demilitarized line near Kumha, central Korea, this morning in violation of the armistice agreement.

No hostile action was taken by the planes. The MIGs came in three waves, the statement said. The United Nations command last week accused the Communists in North Korea of "gross and repeated" violations of the Korean armistice, and decided to replace outmoded weapons in South Korea because the North Koreans and Chinese had already done so, in defiance of the armistice agreement of 1953.

On Saturday all South Korean troops on leave were recalled under an emergency alert. A Korean defence ministry spokesman said "the chances of a North Korean attack on South Korea are always high" and that precautionary measures were needed.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada "sympathized with the need to rectify the arms situation" in South Korea, an external affairs department spokesman said today.

This was the Ottawa reaction when Canada was consulted by the United Nations command in South Korea before the UN notified the Chinese and North Korean Communists last week that modern weapons will be sent to South Korea to counter an arms buildup in North Korea.

'NOSE DIVED'
Survivor
Tells Story

VANCOUVER (CP)—A survivor of the Pacific Western Airlines plane crash which took 14 lives said Sunday night the DC-3 went into a nose-dive shortly before it crashed, after having trouble getting off the ground.

Peter Amushko, 27, of Edmonton, was reached by telephone at the home of a doctor where he was treated for minor injuries suffered when the plane crashed at Port Hardy, B.C.

Amushko said the plane "couldn't seem to get any height" after its takeoff. The pilot banked to the left and headed back, then "shot right up in the air, maybe 1,000 feet."

It banked left again "and went into what I would call a nose-dive."

"I could see the ground coming over my shoulder. We hit and everyone was flung over to the left. My head was kind of squashed against something. There was debris all over. I shook my head. The flames started coming. I undid my safety belt and went for the back door."

"I remember thinking: If that back door is jammed shut, it will be bad but it wasn't. It was partly opened by the impact of hitting ground. I suppose."

"When we got out I heard the stewardess saying: 'There's someone still alive in there.' The flames were coming fast then. It was pretty hot. I could see someone trying to get down to the door and I tried to get to him, but it was no use. The flames got whoever it was."

Second Worst Crash
To Occur on Island

Crash of a Pacific Western Airlines aircraft at Port Hardy Sunday, with the loss of 14 lives, was the second worst ever to occur on Vancouver Island.

The worst was Oct. 17, 1951, when a Canco amphibian operated by Queen Charlotte Airways crashed into Mount Benson behind Nanaimo, killing 29 passengers and the crew of three. None escaped.

14 Killed, 4 Survive
Port Hardy Tragedy

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A press report that the crash of the Pacific Western Airlines DC-3 on Sunday was due to tail blocks being inadvertently left in place was being checked today by the Department of Transport's air division to ascertain if it is accurate.

In September, 1946, at Estevan, crash—which was investigated by Sask., a RCAF transport crashed the RCAF—the transport department, issued regulations which investigations showed, was due to the tail blocks being left in place, have streamers and huge weights preventing the aircraft from gaining altitude.

Following that Estevan air force an aircraft took off.

PORT HARDY, B.C. (CP)—A Pacific Western Airlines plane, returning to land shortly after taking off Sunday from the busy-but-remote Port Hardy airport, 240 miles north of Victoria, bounced high off the runway and then plunged nose first into the ground.

The pilot, co-pilot and 12 passengers died as the twin-engine DC-3 burned fiercely. The youthful stewardess and three other passengers, all from the rear of the plane, made their way almost unhurt through a rear door as flames and burning gasoline sprayed the field and consumed all of the aircraft but its tail.

"It came straight down," said Bill Krause, an airport worker who saw the crash. "The controls must have frozen."

BLAME GROUND CREW

Pacific Western, the third largest air service in Canada, with operations from the United States border to the Arctic Circle, later issued a statement implying that negligence may have been the cause of the crash.

Early reports, the company said, indicate the "cause of the accident was the failure of some personnel to remove one of the ground control blocks which are

The plane crash at Port Hardy killing 14 persons Sunday sent Canada's accidental death toll for the weekend soaring to 79—an all-time record for a two-day weekend.

The total is two more than the 77 victims of the two-day weekend of July 12, 1955, and eight more than the 71 of last weekend.

PM to Pledge Commonwealth Loyalty, Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, has gone to London to assure his Commonwealth partners of his government's desire to stand fast with them and, perhaps, to drum up trade.

The 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer who became prime minister last Friday left Ottawa for London on the RCAF's luxury C-54 transport aircraft for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Wednesday.

Before taking off Sunday with his official delegation, including Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, new defence minister, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Commonwealth has opportunities equal to any in the past to assure and maintain freedom on the RCAF's luxury C-54 transport aircraft for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Wednesday.

Friendship and Harmony With World

It was Canada's desire to stand united with the Commonwealth in good and bad times and in friendship and harmony with all the world, especially the United States.

At Uplands airport Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated an election campaign promise to initiate a Commonwealth trade and economic conference to find ways of achieving a maximum of intra-Commonwealth trade.

Canada, faced with stocks of 725,000,000 bushels of wheat, has lost some of its importance as a supplier to Britain and Mr. Diefenbaker may seek to regain it.

In his broadcast address, Mr. Diefenbaker pledged himself to the service of Canadians in the belief "that the preservation of human dignity and the extension of human betterment are the foundation and keystone of good government."

He referred to Canada's role as a link between Britain and the U.S. and indicated his Progressive Conservative government is prepared to continue in that role.

"I believe that the unity of these nations must be preserved in the years ahead in a spirit of infinite forbearance and compassion," he said.

His party attended the London conference, besides Mrs. Diefenbaker and Mrs. Pearkes, includes R. B. Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council, and Jules Leger, undersecretary of state for external affairs, and A. F. W. Plumptre, assistant deputy finance minister. Mr. Diefenbaker has retained for himself, at least for the time being, the post of external affairs minister.

John D. Appoints Acting Ministers

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of five acting ministers to fill vacant portfolios in the new Progressive Conservative federal government was announced Saturday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

All the acting ministers were among those sworn in Friday for permanent cabinet posts.

The temporarily-vacant portfolios will be handled as follows: Works Minister Howard Green will be acting minister of defence production and of health and welfare.

The Vancouver Quadra member of the House of Commons, it was announced Friday, also will be acting prime minister during Mr. Diefenbaker's two-week stay in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Solicitor-General Leon Baicer of Trois-Rivières, Que., will be acting minister of mines and technical surveys.

HUNGER BEAT HIM

Mau Mau Real Mole For 2½ Years

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—A Mau Mau terrorist has surrendered here after living in a hole in the ground for two and one-half years.

Kamau Gitu, 32, had lived in darkness for so long that his skin had turned khaki colored. District officer G. R. Goldworthy said the man had been kept alive by seven people who provided food and bedding.

When police discovered and stopped the source of Gitu's food supplies, the man surrendered, long-haired and in rags.

Ack-Ack Units In Training At Albert Head

Anti-aircraft firing from Albert Head started over the weekend and will continue until July 7 by mainland ack-ack militia units in summer camp here.

Members of 65 Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment (Irish Fusiliers), Vancouver, arrived here last week and will train until Saturday when they will be replaced by medium ack-ack units.

Vancouver's 43 Medium Anti-Aircraft Battery and the 24 MAA Battery, Trail, will camp at Albert Head from June 29 to July 7.

Mariners are warned of the seaward danger area between Albert Head, Race Rocks and Trial Island, which extends to an altitude of 25,000 feet.

Firing will take place both at night and in daylight.

Meanwhile, on Friday, about 200 men of Victoria militia units will leave for summer training at Camp Wainwright.

Men of 5 Medium Battery, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), 5 Area Signals Squadron, "B" Platoon 156 Transport Company, 25 Medical Company, 40 Technical Squadron and headquarters personnel of 25 Militia Group will take part.

They fly to Vancouver where all but the latter group, led by commanding officer, Brig. John Adam, will entrain for Wainwright. The Group will fly all the way.

PEARKES ORDERS ARMY PENSION SUSPENDED—IT WAS AUTOMATIC

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—One of the first steps taken by Maj.-Gen. Pearkes as minister of national defence, was to issue instructions that his long-term army service pension be suspended effective from the date he was sworn in as minister, on June 21.

While the minister issued this instruction as one of his first acts in office, it was really not necessary.

2 NEWLY-FAMOUS PRAIRIE MEN TO MEET IN BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—Two men from the same town on the Canadian prairies, who found new fame recently, will meet in London this week.

They are Prime Minister Diefenbaker and tenor Jon Vickers, both from Prince Albert, Sask.

Vickers won acclaim in Hector Berlioz' "The Trojans" at London's Covent Garden shortly before Mr. Diefenbaker's surprise triumph in the elections.

Mr. Diefenbaker has a date to see Vickers sing in "The Trojans."

AT BUTCHART'S GARDENS

MacMillan Here For July Concert

Sir Ernest MacMillan, famed ex-conductor of Toronto Symphony Orchestra, will conduct one of the three open-air concerts to be given by Victoria Symphony Orchestra at Butchart's Gardens on July 11, 18 and 25.

Sir Ernest's performance will be on Thursday, July 18. On Thursday, July 11, with Hans Gruber conducting, Victorians will hear Eileen De Tullio, coloratura soprano from New York, who was a finalist in the 1957 Metropolitan Opera auditions of the air.

On Thursday, July 25, the featured soloist will be the auditions winner, Charles O'Neill, tenor, of Stratford, Conn.

GREAT INTEREST
The number of Butchart concerts this year has been increased to three because of the enormous interest shown in them by music lovers in all parts of Canada and the United States.

Symphony Society officials say they have had hundreds of inquiries from as far away as Los Angeles, Chicago, Toronto and Philadelphia.

The perfect setting for good music offered by the gardens seems to have caught the imagination of music lovers everywhere.

As in past years, the only charge for the concerts will be the regular admission to the grounds, where nearly 10,000 persons went for the two concerts last summer.

Last year, guest artists at the concerts came from the Canadian "Singing Stars" radio program.

Lightning Kills Kentucky Professor

LExINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A University of Kentucky professor was killed and the manager of Calumet Farm was critically injured Saturday when lightning struck their electric golf cart on the Lexington Country Club course.

Dr. A. B. McEwen, a member of the law faculty, was killed when he was knocked from the cart. Paul Ebel Hardt, manager of the famed thoroughbred horse farm, was injured critically.

Nehru Dances 20 Minutes Around Swedish Maypole

HAMRA, Sweden (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru cavorted gaily around a maypole here Sunday. So vigorously did the 68-year-old Indian visitor dance that his host, Prime Minister Tage Erlander, became worried.

As he approached to inquire, Erlander also was pulled into the ring of dancers, which gradually grew to include the whole Swedish cabinet and many ambassadors.

The lanky Swedish leader, dancing smoothly, finally brought himself abreast of Nehru.

There, jogging happily, they chatted to the tune of country fiddlers.

Nehru stayed with it for 20 minutes.

Dancing around the maypole is an old Scandinavian custom dating back to the 16th century. Erlander brought Nehru to this village to see some prize cattle and they found the dancing in full swing. Two rosy-cheeked maidens pulled Nehru into the circle.

(BB TO A) "THIS COULD BE THE NIGHT" (Royal)—Those who demand that their plot be as true to life as a slip on a banana peel may not care for MGM's spot of whimsy entitled "This Could Be the Night."

However, others, who enjoy fiction for fiction's sake, should get a fine, rollicking chuckle from it all. It is a comedy with a difference.

Pretty schoolteacher Jean Simmons gets part time employment with reformed racketeer Paul Douglas who runs a high-price dive. When handsome young junior partner Anthony Franciosa, who has more girls on the string than Ziegfeld, and the rest of the staff hear that Jean has a college degree such is their reverence that a great wave of reformation sets in.

PROPRIETOR DOUGLAS begins to dress with the alleged conservatism of a junior executive straight from the Ivy League. The bus boy bones up on algebra (with Jean's help). Even Franciosa begins to wonder if it's worth while seeking safety in numbers.

But "This Could Be the Night" also gets excellent support from the minor characters. Nelle Adams as the bump-and-grind gal with the yen for cooking is wonderful. So is Joan Blondell as an ex-burlesque queen and mother of Nelle, and singer Julie Wilson who enchants with such tunes as "Sadie Green (The Vamp of New Orleans)." Music is supplied by Ray Anthony and his orchestra.

"This Could Be the Night" is a provocative title for a provocative play. That it has nothing whatever to do with the theme not only doesn't matter but seems to keynote the whole delightful affair.

TOO YOUNG, TOO LOUD

Famed Trumpeter Charity Patient

CHICAGO (AP)—Lee Collins, now a charity patient at Cook County Hospital, blames the jazz trumpet that brought him fame for his ill health and the loss of his career.

The 35-year-old Negro, rated among the best of the early jazzmen, suffers from a dilated lung. Physicians say his lusty style of playing would have aggravated the condition and that he'll never play again.

Collins, who began in jazz in New Orleans before the First World War, sadly agrees that he has tooted his last note.

"Maybe it came from blowing too young and too loud," he said dejectedly in his ward at the hospital Sunday.

"I think I've played my last trumpet. I'm too weak to blow any more. I don't feel good at all."

Collins' career stretched from the gin mills of New Orleans' tumbled Storyville to Chicago and on to the Paris Opera House, where he collapsed from his ailment while playing in January, 1955.

Short Wave Club Tests Methods For Emergencies

Thirty-members of the Victoria Short Wave Club took part in the 21st annual field day of the American Radio Relay League at Cordova Bay Saturday.

The club operated five complete two-way radio stations which were set up in tents on a hillside overlooking the bay. The radio stations were powered by a gasoline-powered generator.

The purpose of the field day was to test methods for emergency work and to "log" as many stations as possible.

Members reported they spoke to many remote stations throughout Canada and the

Driver of First Auto Dead at 89

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Charles Brady King, 89, credited with designing and driving the first automobile in Detroit 61 years ago, died Sunday. King completed his first car, powered by a four-cylinder gasoline engine, March 6, 1896, and drove it down Detroit's Woodward Avenue. At about the same time he helped Henry Ford in constructing the first experimental Ford car.

Council of Artists Elects Toronto Man

TORONTO (CP)—Neil Leroy of Toronto Saturday was elected president for the third time of the Canadian Council of Artists and Art. At final sessions of the annual convention it also was decided to hold next year's meeting in Montreal.

Others elected included second vice-president Sally Craighead of Vancouver and western regional representative Moray Sinclair of Winnipeg.

Indian Maidens Break Tradition By Rock 'n' Roll

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three Indian princesses broke into a program of traditional tribal dances Friday night to stage a pantomime presentation of rock and rolling.

The change to modern beat, accompanied by the tomtoms of the Squamish tribal band, was the highlight of a Canadian Legion concert in aid of the Burrard Indian Reserve fund. Braves of the reserve joined in the atom-age dancing.

The princesses earlier performed age-old dances of their tribe, including the fawn dance, the eagle dance and the maiden's dance.

Starring Gloria Jean, Jack Buchanan, Donald Sinden, Peter Finch
Another hit spot in our present series of Top British Comedies is "Josephine and Men". An hilariously funny piece of business done in the inimitable English manner—with a cast eminently suited to such a situation and ably supported by "characters" who fill in so suitably the background of the play. Excellent entertainment. To sell more would spoil your fun.

Big Ben Beaten By Rough Seas

NANAIMO (CP)—The first attempt by a man to swim the Strait of Georgia ended a quarter of the way across Sunday morning when Ben Laughren was ordered from the water by his coach, Dave McMillan.

He covered nearly seven miles of the 36 miles from Nanaimo to Vancouver. He entered the water at 2:55 a.m. and was pulled out at 6:58 a.m. Rough water was blamed for the failure of the attempt.

Big Ben showed little sign of tiredness. The left side of his face was swollen from incessant pounding of whitcaps and his left eye was inflamed. He said afterwards he will again attempt the strait never previously tried, July 7 or 14, and will watch for more favorable weather.

The swimming chef from Victoria stopped for rest periods every hour, and took feedings of orange juice and glucose.

He was accompanied by the yacht Louisa, skippered by Harold Snider, Nanaimo Yacht Club commodore. Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce sponsored the swim.

3 Boys Admit Murder—Father of 1, Victim

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three boys confessed Sunday the murder of the father of one of them.

Police identified the son of a man who died in the Pennsylvania electric chair a little over two years ago as the member of the trio who pumped a slug from a .30-30 rifle into the chest of 35-year-old Martin Daniels as he sat on the stoop of his south Philadelphia home Saturday night.

Police said the boys signed a statement declaring that the murder was planned for revenge by Daniels' 16-year-old son, Martin Jr., after a violent quarrel Friday night.

In the statement, the boys said the Daniels youth turned over the death weapon to 14-year-old Curtis Edwards as they and Albert Stolls, 15, lay in ambush in a cemetery across the street from the Daniels home.

Edwards' father, Grover Cleveland Edwards, was executed April 25, 1955, for the murder of a retired Philadelphia baker.

Full Revision Asked On Evacuation Plan

A complete revision of Greater Victoria evacuation plans will be recommended to the next meeting of Greater Victoria Civil Defence Board.

Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow, recently returned from a CD course at Arnprior, Ontario, said today the existing plan is "obsolete."

The plan was outlined in detail in a 12-page handbook last year. A total of 35,000 copies were distributed to householders in this area. Cost was $2,235.

"The whole of the Saanich peninsula should be evacuated in event of impending attack," Ald. Edgelow stated.

The plan issued last year calls for evacuation of a large part of the district to the Sidney area.

"Our only hope would be for everyone to go up-island," said Ald. Edgelow.

UP-ISLAND

He said the best escape method now would be via the Island Highway with all traffic in three lanes going north. Southbound traffic would be restricted.

This would no doubt create traffic slow-ups and all might not expect to escape, he stated, but "at least a few thousand would be saved."

with senior officers at the Canadian joint staff in London.

The prime minister's dark-haired wife, wearing a blue dress, a long stole and a blue cartwheel hat, was also with him.

A large delegation of British, Canadian and Commonwealth dignitaries was on hand. The Earl of Home, Commonwealth relations secretary, was there on behalf of Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Diefenbaker discounted reports that his government is opposed to the degree of United States investment in Canada, saying "our policy welcomes investment from whatever source it comes, provided it is for the benefit of Canada."

However, the prime minister said his government plans to take steps to amend legislation creating a situation "where a Canadian desiring to invest risk capital in Canada is in a detrimental position compared to a United States investor." He did not elaborate.

Diefenbaker's arrival attracted a near-record turnout of London's press corps. Immediately after leaving the airport he held informal talks with S. D. Pierce, acting Canadian high commissioner to the U.K., and other Canada House officials. He had an afternoon appointment with Macmillan.

Is Margaret Cradle Snatching?

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Express has raised the question whether Princess Margaret is cradle-snatching because her new escort is nearly four years her junior.

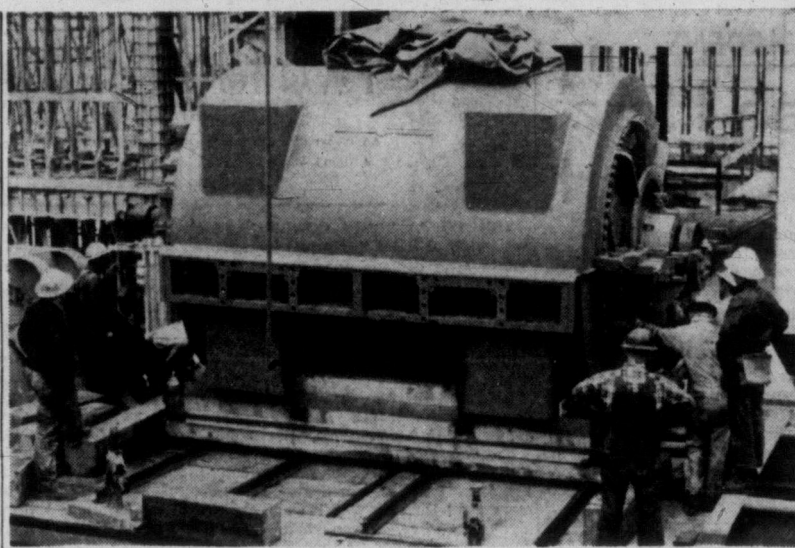

It is the second piece of veiled criticism in as many days by one of Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers about Princess Margaret's going with Lord Patrick Beresford. A Sunday Express columnist hinted that the princess had stolen the handsome guardsman from Joanna Smith-Bingham, a 21-year-old.

The Queen's sister and the young nobleman have been constant companions in recent weeks. She will be 27 in August; he is 23.

Express writer Anne Edwards says the age discrepancy is causing a good deal of talk. Miss Edwards deplores this, asking: "Why should everyone be so horrified at the idea that a 27-year-old girl might marry a 23-year-old boy?"

"Yet the fact is that whenever a girl goes around with a man much younger than herself, people assume she is making the best of what is available, settling for something rather than nothing, looking back because her field has narrowed."

The princess watched Lord Patrick play polo at Windsor Great Park Sunday. Then they drove off together in his car to Windsor Castle, where he was a weekend guest.

COSTLY GENERATOR INSTALLED

Price of generator above, now installed at B.C. Power Commission generating station at Bare Point, near Chemainus, was over $1,000,000. One of four to be in finished plant, it weighs 70 tons, was shipped on special railway car. Generator will be driven by huge gas turbine, will be on load in August, according to power commission officials. (Flett Studio Photo.)

Victorians Form Mining Company To Consolidate W. Coast Claims

A group of Victoria businessmen have formed a new mining company to consolidate three separate groups of claims along the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The firm, Juan de Fuca Mining Co. Ltd., was incorporated May 14 with authorized capital of $1,500,000.

It is a private company at present, but president H. B. Weydert said there are plans to make it a public company.

Other officers are Russell B. Horton, vice-president; Allen E. Bigelow, secretary-treasurer; J. P. Lawlor, managing director; and A. Lorinde, director.

GOLD, COPPER

The three groups, comprising 35 claims in all, principally have showings of gold, copper and magnetite-iron-ores.

They have been worked in the past and are close to tidewater.

Duncan Man Heads Moose Association

VANCOUVER (CP)—Gordon Braithwaite of Duncan was sworn in as president of the B.C. Moose Association here Saturday by supreme lodge representative Pilgrim Brother Harry Howard of Moose Heart, Ill.

Other officers elected were: Jack Brandie, Nanaimo; L. A. Goodrich, Prince George; J. M. Readman, Kamloops; J. R. McLean, Ocean Falls, and C. R. Morrison, Vancouver.

Victoria was selected as the site for next year's convention.

and truck roads in proven mining areas. One group is located near Jordan River and the other two are north of Tofino.

A small crew of men worked this spring cleaning out the old workings and slashing trails, and consulting mining engineers are now studying reports of the previous operations.

A magnetometer and geophysical survey is planned this summer to determine tonnages.

SCHOOL LOAN APPROVED AT TOFINO

TOFINO—Ratepayers of Tofino-Ucluelet School District 79 gave overwhelming approval Friday to a $225,000 school loan referendum.

Terms call for expenditure of the money within four years of December 31, 1956.

About $80,000 of the money voted will be used for construction of a one-room junior high school at Tofino, and most of the balance will be spent on a five-room addition to the Ucluelet-Tofino High School in Ucluelet.

Exhibition Building Chosen Nanaimo Centennial Project

NANAIMO—An exhibition building to be known as "Centennial Centre" will be constructed this year at Exhibition Park as the city's centenary project.

Announcement of the project, to cost an estimated $26,000, was made today by George Molecey, centennial committee chairman.

The building, 200 by 80 feet, is badly needed, since exhibition board chairman Ray Knight had announced that the city might not be able to hold a fall fair this year without it.

ENTRIES DOUBLED

"We have already received double the number of industrial and stock entries of last year," he said, "and we will be in a precarious position without adequate housing."

Mr. Molecey said final approval for the project must come from the B.C. Centennial Committee in Victoria. Decision was made here at a joint meeting of the local centennial committee with Mayor Pete Maffeo and city council.

Mr. Molecey said two larger projects, abandoned chiefly because of the "throttling influence of tight money," were a $100,000 library and a $150,000 swimming pool.

George Darling, library board chairman, said the idea was abandoned after several weeks of investigation because the board "could see no possible solution to possible financing of the building." Nanaimo Lions Club dropped its swimming pool plans for the same reason.

"The exhibition building is a much more realistic project," Mr. Molecey said.
